Excess Profits Tax Bill Holds Up Adjournment

Congress Leaders
No Longer Hope to Go Home This Week

Washington —(P)—Congressional hopes for adjournment this week-end were abandoned today, as a joint conference committee buckled down to what members called the "real work" of adjusting knotty senate and house differences in the excess profits tax bill.

Senator Barkley (D-Kentucky), the Democratic leader, told reporters that he saw little possibility that congress would dispose of this intricate tax legislation, as well as the $1,500,000,000 defense appropriation bill in time to quiet this weekend.

Over demands that the Logan-Walter bill be considered ahead of other legislation, the senate voted 51 to 18 today to take up a measure to authorize the president to put 200,000 more government employees under civil service.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) declared that as soon as the civil service measure had been disposed of he again would seek recognition to bring up the Logan-Walter bill, which would facilitate appeals to the courts from rulings of administration agencies.

The house, meanwhile, gave its approval yesterday to a $267,000,000 deficiency appropriations bill, carrying funds for the training of 700,000 defense workers as well as money to start construction on a country-wide program for the development of 4,000 civil and military airports. The bill now goes to the senate.

Gunman Robs Indiana Bank Flees in Automobile After He Gets More Than $600 in Raid

Delphi, Ind. —(P)—A lone bandit who entered the Bank of Yeoman, a town ten miles north of Delphi, shortly before noon today forced the cashier, L. C. Wolverton, to hand over between $600 and $700 and escaped in a dark sedan.

Wolverton said the man handed him a dollar bill and requested twenty nickels. As he was obtaining the change the man drew a gun and commanded him to hand over all the cash in the cashier's cage, Wolverton said.

The cashier said he turned over to the robber a number of five, ten and twenty dollar bills and one fifty dollar bill and the man then ordered him to "keep under cover," and left the bank.

Arthur Ward, a telephone operator in the town, said he saw the man run from the bank to a car parked nearby. He described the robber as slender and dark and about 40 or 45 years old.

Ward notified state police who established a blockade of nearby roads.

Wife Slayer Gets Life Prison Term

Madison —(P)—Edward Pempek, 35, who killed his wife and wounded the Laona town marshal, was sentenced to life imprisonment today.

Pempek, who wounded himself after shooting his 30-year-old wife, Alvina, in their home at Blackwell Aug. 8, pleaded guilty to first degree murder. Circuit Judge A. J. Murphy pronounced sentence.

The shooting followed a quarrel. Pempek, employed in a paper mill near Wausau, returned home the day of the shooting and visited taverns in Crandon and Laona. The authorities were informed that he carried a revolver when he appeared at a Laona filling station, and John Pierce, Laona town marshal went to investigate.

As Pierce attempted to arrest him, Pempek fired, wounding the officer in the left arm. Pempek fled to his home, fired three bullets into his wife's body and then tried to kill himself.

Goddesses Of the Hunt

Several hundred women in the U. S. earn their living by hunting and trapping, says a census report. This begs various questions. How many hundreds? Whom do they hunt? How do they usually trap them? And shouldn't there be some sort of game wardens to protect the young and helpless? Note: Good housekeeping may be inexpensively set up with the aid of The Post-Crescent classified want-ads. This one offered quick proof.

PLANE CRASHES—Stalling as its student pilot banked it for a landing, the single-seater pup plane shown above plunged 200 feet to crash just beyond the northern edge of the Outagamie county airport late yesterday afternoon. The student pilot, John Van Ryzin, 23, 925 W. Fourth street, was critically hurt, suffering fractures of the skull, jaw and a leg. The wings and fuselage of the plane apparently were not damaged badly, though the machine nosed into the ground. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Flier Critically Hurt In Plane Crash at Airport

Thousands Watch Legion's Parade

Boston —(P)—The American Legion, with bands blaring and banners waving, paraded today before hundreds of thousands of spectators lining a route blazed by landmarks of the nation's history.

National preparedness problems and a prospective slam-bang fight for the choice of a national commander were laid aside for the day.

Led by escorts of police and picked details from the army, navy and marine corps, the parade passed in front of Leverett Saltonstall, Massachusetts' Legionnaire governor, uniformed and standing at attention beneath the century-old gold dome of the state capitol.

With their bands blaring "On Wisconsin," the Milwaukee delegation made a colorful bid to bring the 1941 American Legion convention to that city. Mayor Zeidler marched at the head of the unit, followed by that city's common council. Two attractive floats portraying the Spirit of '76 and a World War scene lent color to the group, along with other floats prepared by the Wisconsin recreation division, showing hunting and boating scenes.

Census Figures Will Give South, Far West 8 More Seats in House

Washington —(P)—The 1940 census figures indicated today that the south and far west would gain eight seats in the house of representatives at the expense of the midwest and industrial east.

Unofficial computations made on the basis of preliminary figures showed that, under the existing formula, the reapportionment due next spring may give two extra seats to California and one each to Arizona, Florida, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon and Tennessee.

The same figures indicated losses of one seat each for Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania.

Senate Asked to Ratify Pact to Bar Hemisphere Land Transfers

Washington —(P)—The senate foreign relations committee, told by Secretary of State Hull that European possessions in the western hemisphere must not become a battleground of the present war, unanimously recommended today that the senate ratify the treaty of Havana.

The treaty, encompassing an agreement between the United States and the 21 Latin American countries to cooperate in the temporary taking over of European possessions at any threat of change in sovereignty, was sent to the committee last week by President Roosevelt, accompanied by a letter from Hull.

Hull wrote that it "would not be consistent with the policy of the United States or desirable from the point of view of the defense of the western hemisphere to permit these regions to become the

John Van Ryzin, 23, 925 W. Fourth street, suffered a skull fracture, broken jaw and leg and lacerations about the face when his plane went into a stall and plunged 200 feet to the ground at the Outagamie county airport about 4:45 yesterday afternoon.

Van Ryzin, a student pilot, was practicing spot landing when the accident occurred just beyond the northern edge of the field. He was piloting a Buhl pup plane which nosed into the ground, the tail pointing upward.

The young aviator, who was rushed to St. Elizabeth hospital in the Kunitz ambulance, was reported to be in fair condition today.

John Lingle, 205 W. Seventh street, Kaukauna, an eyewitness to the accident, said that Van Ryzin seemed to be in trouble as he flew low over the airport hanger and then the plane picked up speed as he began to circle at the northern edge of the field. The plane suddenly dropped to the ground just off the field proper, Lingle said.

Van Ryzin still was in the cockpit of the plane when help arrived. Burling Putman, Milwaukee, of the civil aeronautics department, investigated the crash this morning.

Court-Martial Is Set Up in France

Vichy —(P)—The Petain cabinet today decreed establishment of a national court-martial to judge "the traitors in France" who are corresponding with General Charles de Gaulle, leader of the "free Frenchmen" who are fighting with Britain.

A communique said General de Gaulle had a great many partisans in France itself "who badly understand the word patriotism."

Cites Danger In Third Term

President Cleveland's Son Sees Trend to Centralized Power

Washington —(P)—Richard F. Cleveland, son of President Grover Cleveland, testified today that re-election of President Roosevelt for a third term would "remove our most effective check against the world's present tendency toward concentration of political power."

The Baltimore attorney, whose father, a Democrat, had two non-consecutive terms in the White House, (1885-89 and 1893-97), appeared before a senate judiciary subcommittee studying proposals to limit presidential tenure.

He recalled that his father had turned down the urging of "sound-money or gold Democrats" who offered him a third-term nomination because of their opposition to the regular nominee, William Jennings Bryan.

Cleveland said his father replied to these urging that he was "unalterably opposed" to a third term for any man.

"The central consideration in this issue is power," Cleveland declared. "In a democracy individual citizens cannot give up their power, even if they want to. The Germans wanted to give up their power and accepted Hitler because they were desperate and sought a master. It is possible to understand the surrender of liberty by the Germans, but unthinkable that we should follow them by taking the first step toward perpetuation of political power."

Contracts Awarded Wisconsin Industry

Washington —(P)—Wisconsin industry had received $8,338,531.66 in army contracts and $70,507.05 in navy contracts in the national defense program up to Sept. 15, the war department disclosed today.

The navy total did not include the contract awarded to the Manitowish Ship Building company for construction of 10 submarines.

In the period between Sept. 1 and Sept. 15, army contracts totaling $2,168,026.48 were awarded to Wisconsin firms, it was reported. Navy contracts in Wisconsin in this period totaled $114,621.24.

Axis to Fight Britain To End, Berlin Says

Berlin —(P)—The axis powers will fight Britain to the bitter end without the slightest compromise, regardless of who may yet rally to her support, authorized German sources said today after the return of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop from his Rome conferences with Premier Mussolini.

There will be no compromise, these quarters added.

Without going into the details of the Rome parley, they characterized the conferences as having included "all the questions necessary for the defeat of Britain."

Not only will there be no compromise, they said, but "the fight against England will be continued on all fronts."

British Fliers Hammer Nazi Ships in Channel

Cambridge Is Nazi Target, Reich Reports

Berlin —(P)—The famous medieval town of Cambridge, England, seat of the university which King George VI attended, has been bombed by Nazi airmen in retaliation, the high command said today, for a British attack on old Heidelberg.

As the German air force struck back at London with "rolling attacks" in reprisal for the bombing of Berlin during the night, the high command issued a communique listing the places attacked yesterday when bombs were dropped on Cambridge.

Big fires, the high command said, were seen by German fliers in the Millwall and India docks area of London, at Vauxhall and at Hyde park. Millwall and India docks lie at the big loop of the Thames, which forms the Isle of Dogs. Vauxhall and Hyde park, the latter noted for its soap box oratory, are close to the heart of London.

Report Many Fires

German pilots reported many new fires raging in London, and added that the old fires' near the India docks were growing to gigantic proportions.

Flames were started at Liverpool also last night, the high command asserted. It minimized the military effectiveness of the R. A. F. attack on Berlin, insisting that only apartment houses and residential districts were hit.

The death toll from the raid stood at 11 dead, 14 injured.

German officials are investigating each of the seemingly numerous hits by explosive and incendiary bombs. Many inflammable phosphorus leaflets were dropped, authorities said.

Informed sources said Nazi warplanes began attacking England early in the morning, roaring across the channel in relays towards London and other objectives in southern England.

Returning German pilots said they had "effectively bombed" the

Changes Plea, Pays $50 Fine

Waupaca Man, 26, Admits Charge of Drunken Driving

Frederick Dahm, Jr., 26, Waupaca, changed a plea of not guilty to guilty of drunken driving in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan this morning.

The motorist was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 60 days in the county detention camp under both the city and state laws and his driving license was revoked for a year. Upon payment of the city fine and costs in both actions, Judge Ryan remitted the $50 fine under the state law.

Dahm was arrested by city police following an accident Sept. 17. Dahm drove his car into the rear of another, police said.

Garner's Return To Washington

Since the vice president left the nation's capital after his unsuccessful bid at Chicago for the presidential nomination, there has been political speculation as to whether he was retiring to his Texas homeland.

A maid in the Garner residence, said Vice President and Mrs. Garner left town quietly this morning.

She did not disclose when they expected to reach Washington or what route they were taking.

Not even Garner's closest friends here knew the vice president was leaving. Uvalde townspeople believed "Cactus Jack" was home to stay.

A few days ago Mrs. Garner, who is his secretary, said he would have returned to Washington long since had there been important need. Then, she said, "there is none."

Raiders Find Suspect Bathing in Whiskey

Columbia, S. C. —(P)—Raiding a bootlegger's house here, police could find no whiskey although the rattle of bottles was audible and the smell of liquor strong.

Finally an officer smelled a tub in which one of the members of the household was still taking a bath. The man had been splashing away in whiskey.

U.S. Maps Course After Jap Indo-China Drive

Action May Go Beyond Diplomatic Protest; Fighting Reported Halted

Hanoi, French Indo-China —(P)—Japanese forces are again attacking French positions near Langson, 80 miles northwest of Hanoi and 12 miles inside the border of French Indo-China, French officials reported tonight.

The new thrust, the French said, followed 12 hours of comparative inactivity, during which the French troops were under orders to fire only if fired upon.

Washington —(P)—Hints came from informed administration sources today that the United States may go beyond a diplomatic protest in showing disapproval of Japan's drive into French Indo-China which Secretary Hull said upset the status quo in the Pacific.

There was no indication what decisions were taken at policy-making conferences of state department officials following the entry Sunday of Japanese troops into the Far Eastern colony.

One usually well-informed source predicted, however, that the United States would not "let this challenge go unanswered."

Although the possibility of a diplomatic protest was not ruled out, its effectiveness in checking Japan's southward drive was discounted in informed quarters.

A wide range of possibilities was canvassed in conferences to decide what measures could be taken to reinforce the government's long-established policy of insisting on maintenance of the status quo in the Far East.

May Take Strong Stand

The growing confidence of administration officials in Britain's resistance in Europe prompted the belief in some quarters that the United States could assume a more active role in stabilizing Pacific conditions.

It also was reported in military circles that Britain herself was considering sending naval reinforcements from European waters to her Far Eastern stronghold at Singapore.

Whether some form of Anglo-American naval cooperation in the

Paderewski Leaves on Trip to United States

Lausanne, Switzerland. —(P)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, 80-year-old pianist and former premier of Poland, left by automobile today on a first leg of a journey which will take him to the United States, where he hopes to spend the rest of his life.

He planned to motor across France and Spain en route to Lisbon, Portugal, there to sail for New York. He expects to go to his ranch in California.

He was accompanied by his sister, a secretary and his chauffeur.

French Raid Gibraltar After Attack on Dakar

Vichy, France —(P)—The French naval ministry announced tonight that the "admiral commanding the English fleet" before Dakar had issued a second ultimatum after failing in six attempts to land troops, demanding the surrender of the capital of French West Africa under the threat of occupying the city by force.

La Linea, Spain, at the Gibraltar Border —(P)—French air forces estimated at 30 planes, apparently based in French Morocco, were seen attacking Britain's fortress of Gibraltar at 10-minute intervals for an hour and a half today, presumably in retaliation for the British navy's shelling of Dakar.

Dense columns of black smoke rose from the famous rock, leading observers at this Spanish town to believe that gasoline depots had been hit.

From 12:40 p. m. to 2:05 p. m., British anti-aircraft guns on the fortress fired almost without cessation.

The raiders were reported to have dropped about 20 bombs on the docks at Punta Europa.

Observers who have witnessed several Italian air attacks on the fortress expressed belief this was the heaviest raid yet made on Gibraltar.

Vichy France —(P)—French forces were said to have repulsed several British attempts to land today at Dakar, French West Africa, and 120 French planes were reported to have struck back at France's former ally with a bombardment of Gibraltar.

Advices from Dakar, capital and chief port of the African colony which Britain is accused of trying to seize, said that one French submarine had been hit by a British shell and that a British cruiser had been hit by a French coastal battery.

This report, reaching here at noon, did not tell whether either of the war vessels was damaged heavily or sunk.

The first casualty reports put the French dead at "more than 100."

There was no immediate official confirmation of the report that French planes had raided Britain's

Planes Sink Four Vessels, Observers Say

London —(P)—Countering German invasion preparations with all its power, the British air force rapped home blow after blow today, attacking German ships caught in the English channel, carrying out the greatest raid of the war on Berlin and leaving the German-held French coast in flames.

Eyewitnesses saw five British bombers dive in line upon four medium-sized German ships approaching Boulogne, on the French coast, and apparently sank them all. The channel was almost as smooth as glass.

Geysers of water hid the ships from view after a first barrage of bombs. When one ship was seen to remain, a second diving attack was made. After the water and smoke had settled, it too had disappeared from the view of observers on the British coast at Folkestone.

Although torpedo-armed German mosquito boats dashed out of the Boulogne harbor, they put about and returned to their base.

Relays of Planes

British sources said the attack on Berlin last night was carried out by relays of planes which started from a railway station. The German capital's main power station and gas works were said to have become "flaming" because which guided the way to subsequent attacks on freight yards, stations and utilities.

The reich's air force again sent huge formations swarming over the southeast coast in thrusts at London, which resulted in two brief air-raid alarms during the morning.

Lock gates on the Kiel canal, Germany's most convenient means of naval movements and water transportation from the Baltic to the North sea, were objectives in Britain's night attacks, the air ministry said.

Attacks also were said to have been delivered on a wide network of rail communications, including freight yards at Munster and Hannover, several airfields, an aircraft factory at Wismer, and shipyards and docks at Hamburg, Cuxhaven, Bremen and Bremerhaven.

Reports 50,000 Killed

Informed British military sources refused to comment today on dispatches from the French-Spanish border, published here, that Germany lost "between 50,000 and 60,000 picked troops" Sept. 6 when a channel gale scattered Adolf Hitler's "invasion fleet."

The assertions were made in the Daily Mail by Harold Cardozo, a special correspondent on the French-Spanish border.

Neutral military sources also were inclined to discount the report.

Cardozo's story said: "Hitler lost between 50,000 and 60,000 picked troops in a disaster which scattered his invasion fleet a week ago today, it is learned here."

"They were victims of channel storms and merciless R.A.F. bombardment."

"Because the German troops had already suffered heavy losses from British bombing, the Nazi high command decided to make new dispositions."

Orders Held Up

"The invasion fleet, consisting of thousands of barges and small vessels, was taken out of the ports and moored along the lonely Flanders coast."

"Most of the vessels carried their full complement of troops, since the keynote of the Nazi plan has been readiness for instant action."

"Sunday (Sept. 15) saw the fleet ready for the cross-channel dash, but the terrific beating meted out to Nazi planes (185 were shot down in battles over Britain) held up the orders to sail."

"Then on Monday, southwest gales swept the channel. The Flanders coast is notoriously dangerous at this season. It became a death trap."

"The German tugs tried desperately to get the barges to safety, but scores of them were overturned, drowning thousands of soldiers."

"Convoys of barges and tugs were moved to safe waters—to meet renewed bombing raids and more gales."

Court Urged to Uphold U. S. Wage and Hour Act

Washington —(P)—The government urged the supreme court today to overrule two precedent-making decisions of the past and uphold the wage-hour law.

This course was advocated by Solicitor General Francis Biddle in a brief filed preparatory to arguing constitutionality of the statute fixing minimum pay and a maximum work-week for employees in interstate commerce.

Biddle asserted that "employers who exploit sub-standard labor conditions gain an unfair advantage" and that congress had the constitutional power to remedy such a condition.

School Trains 2 Classes in Defense Work

Machinists, Welders
Busy; 2 Other Courses
May Enlarge Program

The Appleton Vocational school is training welders and machinists to take part in national defense preparations.

Two of these classes are now in operation at the school in the program sponsored jointly by the federal government and the vocational schools of the nation.

The class in welding has 12 members, with Ernest Mummie as the instructor. John Marshall is instructing the machine shop class of 51 students. Both groups meet from 8 to 10 o'clock, five days a week. Students in the classes are both WPA workers and assignees from the Appleton office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service. All have had previous experience in the type of work in which they are now refreshing themselves.

Herb Heiler, director of the school, has reported that classes may be added in auto mechanics and electricity if enough men are found. The courses run from eight to 10 weeks.

At least 50 per cent of each class must come from WPA rolls. Eight of the 12 welding students and 10 of the 15 machine shop students were listed on WPA rolls.

Auxiliary Unit Inducts Officers

Little Chute—Installation of the newly elected officers of the American Legion auxiliary will be held at a meeting Wednesday evening at the village hall. Mrs. Arthur Schurbring of Kaukauna will be the installing officer. The officers to be installed are Mrs. George Versteeg, president; Mrs. George P. Hammen, first vice president; Mrs. John J. Hammen, second vice president; Mrs. John A. Vanden Heuvel, secretary and treasurer. Following the business meeting cards will be played, prizes will be awarded and a lunch will be served.

Mrs. Martha Gloudehans of Milwaukee and Mrs. Chester Perkins and daughter, Priscilla of Lansing, Mich., were weekend guests at the home of Mrs. Arnold Gloudehans, Canal street.

Miss Joan Van Susteren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Susteren has left for Madison where she will attend the state university.

Reviews Book

A book entitled, "Nations Can Live at Home," was reviewed by Mrs. Emma Pagelow, 708 W. Third street, last night at a meeting of the Appleton section of Technocracy, Inc. at 130 E. College avenue. M. F. Wasserbach, director, was in charge.

Fall Calls for Care in Driving, Steidl Advises

76 Killed in State
During August in Traffic Accidents

Fall weather brings a period of fogs and wet weather which often makes driving conditions dangerous. Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad today warned motorists.

One serious accident in the county within the last week was caused by fog, Captain Steidl said. Motorists were warned by the county police head to drive carefully when fog or wet weather conditions prevail. Automobile lights should be checked so that they are in perfect working order, he said.

Seventy-six persons died in Wisconsin traffic accidents last night, according to a state report received by Captain Steidl.

The August motor vehicle traffic death toll this year was 14 higher than for the corresponding month last year. August accidents claimed 62 lives in 1939, 72 in 1938 and 111 in 1937. August, 1937, was the most tragic single month for motorists and pedestrians in the history of the state.

In the first eight months of 1940, 449 lives were lost in traffic mishaps. Records show 405 persons were killed during the corresponding period of 1939, 370 in 1938 and 528 in 1937.

The August increase in fatalities brought to an end the downward trend of the previous two months. Both June and July showed fewer deaths this year than last year, despite increased summer travel.

Records indicate a fatality of 146 per 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline consumed in August, 1940. On the same basis for the same month, the fatality rate was 133 in 1939, 149 in 1938 and 214 in 1937.

While August fatalities showed a 56 per cent increase over July fatalities, the death rate per 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline consumed was only 28 per cent greater.

The football season will swell the volume of travel on highways every weekend. Longer hours of darkness will increase the hazards of night driving.

In the last three months of 1939—October, November and December, 202 persons died in Wisconsin traffic accidents. Sixty-two were pedestrians, many of whom were killed after dark.

Swimming for All Ages Is Offered in Program at 'Y'

There is only one entrance requirement for enrollment in an Appleton Y. M. C. A. swimming class. You must be eight years of age or older.

During last year, 111 boys and 132 girls learned the fundamentals of swimming in "Y" classes. Of this number, 124 received diplomas in the Learn to Swim campaign which is sponsored jointly by the Appleton Post-Crescent and the "Y".

During the year, the physical department conducts a class for small boys who are called "midgits." Before a boy may join the next bracket, the Friendly Indians, he must be able to swim the length of the 60-foot pool.

The beginners class for girls is held at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoons. This includes girls of grade and junior high school age. They are promoted to the advanced swimming class when they are able to swim the length of the pool.

A beginning class for business girls is held from 8 o'clock to 7 o'clock Tuesday evenings. Men learn their fundamentals on Monday evenings.

Housewives have their turn at the pool on Tuesday and Friday mornings from 9:30 to 11 o'clock and on the afternoons of those same days from 2 o'clock to 3:30. Both beginning and advanced students participate in these classes.

He's Promoted
Once a boy becomes a Friendly Indian, he gets lessons in advanced swimming and diving. After the boy has reached the age of 14, he may try for the Junior Red Cross life saving diploma. At 17, he is eligible to work for the senior diploma. These classes are conducted by George Klein, regional Red Cross director.

Eunice Forster this year will conduct the Red Cross life saving classes for women.

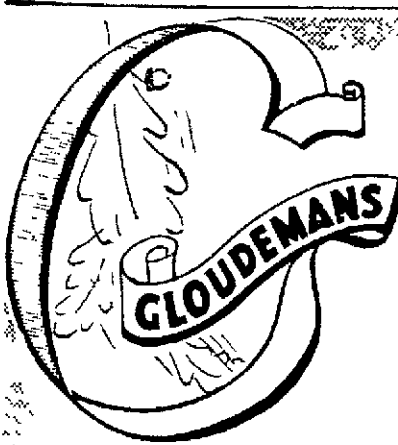

Kenneth Westberg directs the boys junior swimming team at the "Y". The boys gather at the pool on Wednesday evenings for practice and instruction and compete with other teams in their same age bracket in this area. The squad last year engaged teams from Green Bay, Two Rivers, Fond du Lac, and Neenah.

An annual junior high school swimming meet is another feature of the "Y" program.

Gaining popularity each year is the "social swim," conducted for men and women one night each week. Members and their guests are eligible to participate.

Mayor Named Honorary Chairman for Project

Theodore Roosevelt, national chairman for the annual Bowl of Rice parties to raise money to aid Chinese civilians, yesterday appointed Mayor Goodland honorary chairman of a committee to sponsor the project in Appleton this year. The mayor will name an active chairman to plan some kind of party in Appleton. Last year a motion picture was sponsored to raise the money.

Red Cross Needs Women to Knit Sweaters for Refugees

The Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross has a new production quota for war relief in Great Britain and needs the help of individuals and organizations to complete it by Dec. 31, according to Mrs. Mabel O. Shannon executive secretary.

The Red Cross has moved its headquarters to the third floor of the Olympic building 107 W. College avenue, to provide more working and storage space for production workers.

Included in the quota are 800 sweaters for men, women and children which must be ready by Dec. 31. Mrs. Paul Hackbert, production chairman said the Red Cross will furnish the yarn but women are needed to knit the sweaters. Working space will be provided or the women may take the yarn home and do the work.

Women's organizations which want to help with sewing or knitting clothing for war refugees have been asked to contact the Red Cross and more information will be given.

Since July the Red Cross has made 102 shipments of relief supplies in British boats and two by clipper plane. Mrs. Shannon said. Sixty-six British steamships have provided free cargo space for the shipments and none has been lost at sea.

The quota for December includes 500 children's sweaters, 200 women's sweaters, 100 men's sweaters, 74 women's dresses, 140 women's skirts, 375 girls' dresses, 250 girls' skirts, 200 layettes, 20 boys' shirts, 60 boys' overalls, 60 boys' shorts, 50 convalescent robes, 120 hospital pajamas.

Materials for the clothing will be provided by the Red Cross.

28 Men Enlist In Appleton's Guard Company

50 More are Needed, Captain Piette Says; Banquet Will Be Held

Twenty-eight young men have joined Company D of the 127th infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, in the last week, Captain H. J. Piette, commanding officer, announced today.

This number more than makes up for the members of the guard who will be unable to take the year's training at Camp Beauregard, La., but the Appleton company needs "about 50 more men" because of its increase in authorized strength, the captain reported. Twenty-four present members of the company have been discharged because they have dependents.

Captain Piette's announcement followed last night's meeting of the national guard relations committee of the Onyx Johnson post, American Legion, at which plans were made for a banquet in honor of the guard company and a public mass meeting before the guardsmen leave for camp.

Assembling last night at the legion clubhouse, the committee decided to hold the banquet Thursday night, Oct. 10, and the mass meeting at Soldiers Square Tuesday night, Oct. 15. The latter date, Oct. 15, is the day on which the guards will be called into training.

Ask Pledge
The committee today sent out letters to industries and business houses in Appleton announcing the recruiting drive for Company D. The letter asked employers to promise re-employment to men who join Company D for the year's training or are drafted in the conscription program. The letters were signed by the committee members.

Paul Wilke is chairman for the banquet Oct. 10. Arthur Bunks is in charge of invitations and August A. Arens of entertainment. There will be a program of talks by former and present national guard members and by military, political, and religious leaders in the community and state.

The public mass meeting at Soldiers Square the night of Oct. 15 will start at 8 o'clock. Arens will be marshal of the parade which will precede the gathering. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Dascam Forbush, pastor of the Congregational church and a World War veteran, will be speakers. Arthur Bunks will be in charge of inviting patriotic societies to the meeting. The committee will meet again Tuesday night.

Reasons for Exemptions
A bulletin received by Captain Piette this morning from the United States army gave three reasons for exempting men from national guard duty. Any one reason is sufficient. A man is exempted if he is in an "essential industry," if he is in an education institution and his education is so advanced that his completion is desirable for the defense program, or if he has dependents.

The army was a busy place this morning as Captain Piette, assisted by members of the guard, worked on the recruiting program. The captain's office at the army is open during the day and on Monday and Thursday nights.

Distribute Workers' Kits at Meeting of County Willkie Club

Willkie workers' kits were distributed at a meeting of the Outagamie County Willkie for President club last night at the Conway hotel. About 75 persons attended.

Each kit is equipped to furnish 10 people with material and information about the candidates for president and 10 Willkie first million buttons and other blanks for addition kits. The kits are used by workers as an aid in signing up additional Willkie supporters.

L. R. Watson, president, said the club is non-partisan with Willkie's election as its single purpose. He announced that Mrs. George Wood will be in charge of the club's office, 215 Insurance building, and that he will be at the office from 4:40 to 6 o'clock.

Robert Bassett, Green Bay, will speak at the next meeting of the club at 7:45 Monday evening at the Conway hotel. The meeting will be open to the public.

Labor Editor Dies
Atlanta —(P)—Jerome Jones, editor of the Atlanta Journal of Labor and former president of the Georgia federation of labor, died today.

Douglas to Talk At Gathering of Parents, Teachers

Dr. George Douglas, assistant professor of sociology at Lawrence college, will speak at a meeting of the Franklin Parent Teachers association Monday night at the school. It will be the first meeting of the new school term.

Douglas will speak on a survey which he recently completed on juvenile delinquency in Appleton. Parents will be given an opportunity to meet the teachers who will be in their rooms from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Other outstanding meetings for the remainder of the year will include the dedication of the new Franklin school addition, upon its completion and a speech by a nationally known recreational leader.

At an organization meeting last night at the home of the president, Mr. Irving Kersten, officers and committee chairmen made tentative plans for future meetings with Mrs. Ben Rowland, program chairman.

First Frost of Season Tonight

Temperature Lower Today; Mercury at 52 This Afternoon

September is going to get in a few frosty swipes at Appleton and vicinity, according to today's weather forecast.

"Heavy to killing frosts" are predicted for this area tonight by the Milwaukee bureau, with temperatures remaining "much cooler" tomorrow. Skies will be cloudy. The forecast of frost is general for Wisconsin, Upper Michigan, and Minnesota.

Temperatures today were considerably cooler, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent reading 52 at 12:30 this afternoon. Yesterday's high was 70, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. The 24-hour low was 49 at 6 o'clock this morning. Rainfall during that period measured .36 of an inch.

Phoenix, with 100, and Fargo, N. D., with 39, were the hottest and coldest places, respectively in the nation yesterday.

The Weather

Forecast for Wisconsin:
Fairly cloudy and cooler, much cooler south and central portions, heavy to killing frost tonight; Wednesday partly cloudy, continued cool.

General Weather Conditions:
During the last 24 hours rain has fallen over the middle Atlantic coast, Ohio valley and sections of Tennessee, the Great Lakes region, the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, central plains states, Rocky mountain region and the west Gulf states. Heavy showers occurred over the upper Lakes region, Duluth reporting 2.12 inches and Frankfort, Mich., 1.38 inches. Fair weather prevailed over all other sections of the country.

It was slightly warmer this morning over the lower Lakes region and the Ohio valley, while it was much cooler over the upper Lakes region, the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and the northern plains states.

Partly cloudy and cooler weather is expected in this section tonight and Wednesday, with heavy to killing frost tonight.

Back From Hospital

Royalton — Mrs. Rex Orner returned to her home Monday from the Iowa hospital where she had been having treatments for a bullet wound in her arm, when her little son Le Voy, 4, accidentally pulled the trigger of a .22 caliber rifle and inflicted the wound.

The topic for discussion in the Congressional Sunday school Sunday will be "The Use and Abuse of Wealth."

The lessons for the next 6 months will be from the Gospel by Luke, one chapter a week for a period of 24 weeks with two weeks for review.

The Rev. H. P. Rekstad will attend the state meeting of the Wisconsin Pilgrim Fellowship and the Wisconsin Congressional conference at Fond du Lac Sept. 27 to 29.

Members of Religious Sect Appeal Conviction in Illinois

Harrisburg, Ill.—(P)—Cash bonds totaling $240 were on file here today to appeal to Saline county circuit court the conviction of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Simcox of Evansville, Ind., in justice of peace court yesterday on a charge growing out of the distribution of Jehovah's Witnesses' literature.

The appeal was taken on fines totaling $100 and costs assessed by Justice of Peace F. M. Sewell against Simcox and his wife after he had found them guilty of charges filed by State's Attorney Lloyd H. Melton on a complaint signed by Jack Edwards, commander of the Harrisburg post of the American Legion.

The specific charge was that Simcox and his wife "did unlawfully present and exhibit a certain sketch and publication, which said publication portrayed lack of virtue in the Catholic and Protestant religions and did then and there unlawfully expose the believers in those religions to contempt and derision and which was productive of a breach of the peace and riots."

In finding the defendants guilty, the justice of peace stated "it is my judgment that in this pamphlet they were distributing—if carried to its logical conclusion—would cause riot and disturbance of peace."

Edwards was the principal witness for the prosecution and defense witnesses included E. H. Comstock of Mattoon, who identified himself as a zone man for the Jehovah's Witnesses; S. F. Goodwin of East St. Louis, who identified himself as a minister of that denomination; and the two defendants.

In addition the Rev. S. H. Frazier, Harrisburg Baptist minister, and the Rev. H. P. Mannion, a Catholic priest of Harrisburg, discussed religion and civil liberties informally. The trial court was moved twice to larger quarters to accommodate a large crowd of spectators.

It Is Said ---

There's always someone with a new hobby. Today Mayor Goodland received a letter from Charles Murray, London, Ontario, Canada, who asked the mayor to send him a copy of the city's seal. Murray wants the seal to add to an exhibit of heraldry of the British Empire and the United States which he is compiling.

Holden, Retired Rail Executive, Succumbs

New York —(P)—Hale Holden, 71, one of the leading railroad men in the United States, died last night after a 12-day illness. He retired a year ago as chairman of the Southern Pacific company, a position he accepted in 1929 at a salary of $150,000 a year.

Asks Board Members To Call for Checks

Election board members who worked in the primary election Sept. 17, were asked today by Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer, to call at his office for their checks. The city will pay $7 to each of 126 persons who comprised the 18 election boards.

Board Will Study Swim Pool Report

A meeting of the board of public works was scheduled this afternoon in city hall to study a report on Appleton's proposed swimming pool compiled by the state board of health. The city will open bids on the pool, next Monday.

Quartets Gather for Their Evening of Fun

The closing sequel to the Post-Crescent Barber Shop Quartet tournament, the stag party, was held last night at Moose hall.

Quartets, under pleasant atmospheric conditions, sang rehearsed numbers, mixed up their members' names for unrehearsed ditties, and banded together for several "everybody in" numbers.

There was a lot of singing—several hours of it—and there was talk of next year's event. About 40 fellows were present at last night's outing.

Vocational Teachers Will Convene Tonight

Teachers in the distributive department of the Appleton Vocational school will meet tonight at the Conway hotel. The subject matter and schedule of the year's classes will be discussed.

Willkie States Power Projects Won't be Ended

Promises to Continue Them if He Wins in Presidential Race

Aboard Willkie Train Enroute to Butte, Mont.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie told a cheering crowd at the Spokane, Wash., railroad station today he would continue the Bonneville and Grand Coulee power projects if elected to the presidency.

"Yet the opposition says that Wendell Willkie will take a spade and dig 'em up," added the Republican presidential nominee.

(In Washington, Secretary Harold Ickes of the interior department made public a telegram he had sent Willkie urging the nominee "to be really frank as to what your attitude will be on the vital question of public power if you are elected president.")

Willkie made this four-point accusation today against the Roosevelt administration:

"Its domestic policy is a complete failure.

"Its foreign policy is a muddle.

"It has created a gigantic national debt.

"And now it wants to violate one of the most sacred American traditions in seeking a third term for President Roosevelt."

Point to His Record
"And the only argument that Mr. Roosevelt has made so far is that he is a common man and that Wendell Willkie is a representative of the aristocracy."

Willkie added that he had worked with his hands in steel mills, farms and on the range. His audience cheered.

Willkie also addressed an audience at the rear of the courthouse. "There is no man in the United States," Willkie said, "whose record shows more sympathy for labor. And yet they say that I am the aristocrat. Look me over. You'll never see another aristocrat like me."

"There isn't a single argument that can be advanced for the reelection of this administration except its desire to keep public office."

I'm speaking of those who surround the president. It's not Franklin Roosevelt you are voting for. It's a large group that is in power and wants to stay in power. The history of the world has been that whenever a group is in that position, it is time to give them the gate."

Think Logically, Students are Told

It is more important to think logically and precisely and express thoughts accurately than merely to garner the required units for entrance to college, Willard J. Schenck, certified public accountant, told mathematics students of Appleton High school Monday afternoon.

From the learning standpoint, the more difficult a subject is the more its value increases, Schenck declared. He encouraged a wider interest in higher mathematics. From a vocational standpoint the speaker pointed out that there is scarcely a position today which does not require mathematics.

Schenck spoke to the students at the invitation of the mathematics instructors, Miss Ethel Carter and Miss Esther Graef.

Quartets Gather for Their Evening of Fun

The closing sequel to the Post-Crescent Barber Shop Quartet tournament, the stag party, was held last night at Moose hall.

Quartets, under pleasant atmospheric conditions, sang rehearsed numbers, mixed up their members' names for unrehearsed ditties, and banded together for several "everybody in" numbers.

There was a lot of singing—several hours of it—and there was talk of next year's event. About 40 fellows were present at last night's outing.

Despondent Father Kills 2 Small Sons And Takes Own Life

New York—(P)—Donald O'Reilly took his two little boys by the hand at dusk yesterday, called back to his wife, "Ellen, we're going for a walk"—and closed the door.

In the half-light, they disappeared into nearby Bronx park.

The rest is told by police who reconstructed these events.

Beside a willow-lined stream they walked for a long time, and Donald brooded over the job he'd lost a week ago—the job he'd had for 11 years.

Finally, night fell and Donald sat down under a big tree. He drew his boys into his arms—Donald, Jr., 8, and James, 7.

Three sharp sounds broke the silence of the place.

The bodies of the father and boys were found still lying there this morning, not far from one another.

In the head of each was a bullet hole. Clutched between the knees of the 31-year-old Donald was a revolver from which three shots had been fired.

When detectives broke the news to the wife and mother she collapsed.

Arthur Carney, assistant district attorney, said O'Reilly, who had been a demonstrator for a business machine firm, had shot the two boys and then turned the gun on himself.

Committee Will Discuss Proposals For Cut-Over Area

Madison —(P)—The Wisconsin branch of the Northern Lakes States Regional committee, which a year ago proposed a plan for a federal program to develop the cut-over land areas, will meet soon to discuss proposals for a separate Wisconsin program.

The original report of the committee, of which M. W. Torkelson, state planning director, is chairman, covered this state, Minnesota and Michigan.

Torkelson recently advised members of the group the national resources committee had urged continuation of the studies with the view of formulating separate state programs.

Pointing out that policies in the three lake states differ in detail, Torkelson said it was necessary for representatives of each state to proceed without delay since the legislatures of all three would meet in January.

Wonder if Hatch Act Applies to Draffees

Washington—(P)—Concern was manifested in the senate today as to whether the Hatch anti-politics act should be applied to the men selected for military service under the peacetime conscription law.

The question was raised by the civil service commission ruling that national guardsmen, inducted into active service or still attending weekly drill, were bound by the statute which forbids those paid in whole or in part with government funds to discuss political candidates publicly or to participate in a campaign.

The author of the law, Senator Hatch (D-N. M.), although professing little worry about the guard ruling, acknowledged that he was "troubled" about the question of applying the statute to trainees.

The difference between the two cases appeared to be that guardsmen elect voluntarily to serve in a branch of the nation's armed forces, whereas many trainees may be drawn into service involuntarily.

Wisconsin Has 255 Cases of Paralysis

Madison —(P)—The state board of health received reports of 17 new cases of infantile paralysis today, increasing Wisconsin's provisional total for the year to 255.

The board said Dane, Forest, Outagamie and Rock counties each reported two new cases while single cases were recorded in Brown, Buffalo, Burnett, Clark, Iron, Juneau, Milwaukee, Racine and Winnebago counties.

Behrend, Institute Trustee, Succumbs

Ernest R. Behrend, about 70, president of the Hammermill Paper company, Erie, Pa., died during the weekend after a long illness, it was reported today.

Behrend for the last several years was a trustee of the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Life in City and Valley to Be Subject of Color Movie

People of Appleton and vicinity will see themselves on the Rio theater screen tomorrow and Thursday.

The full-length color movie, "Life in Appleton and The Fox Valley," is completed and ready for showing. Produced by Life Newsreels under the direction of the Appleton Post-Crescent, the picture presents informal glimpses of life in Appleton, Neenah - Menasha, Kimberly, Little Chute, and Kaukauna.

Four Life Newsreels representatives for several weeks have been busy in this vicinity making the movie. They have visited meetings of political, social, and civic groups. They have gone to schools to film activities. They have taken candid shots of city officials and of babies and of election night.

"Life in Appleton and The Fox Valley" will be the first picture of its type to be seen in this city. The "stars" will be the people you know, the setting the communities with which you are familiar.

Life Newsreels has been operating in the Midwest for the last two years, making films of this type. In the last six months, the company has toured Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana.

There will be night scenes of theater crowds, pictures of Appleton people on their way to church, a College avenue parade, and action shots of Appleton High school and Lawrence college football scrimmage, and many others.

Today's Deaths

H. A. Ransom

H. A. Ransom, 65, Green Bay, father of Mrs. W. S. Giffin, Appleton, died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at his home after a brief illness. Mr. Ransom was employed by the North Western railroad for 37 years and was chief clerk to the division superintendent at the time of his retirement about a year ago. The body may be viewed at Blaney Funeral home, Green Bay.

Levi Welch

Levi Welch, 53, Maywood, Ill., formerly of Kaukauna, died at 9:35 this morning after a short illness. He was taken ill while visiting in Kaukauna and vicinity. Mr. Welch was born at Stockbridge in 1887 and moved to Kaukauna where he was employed by the Chicago and North Western railway for 30 years before going to Maywood.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Martin VanHammond, Mrs. Lawrence VanBoegart, Little Chute; Mrs. Harold Worth, Kaukauna; and one at Green Bay, three sons, Gordon Kimbrey, Lloyd Oneda; Arthur Koehnke, Kaukauna; two brothers, Garfield, Milwaukee; David, Chilton; a sister, Mrs. Charles Mathews, Quincy, Ill., and 16 grandchildren.

Infant Dies

Black Creek — Mr. and Mrs. William Kronz, Black Creek, have received word of the death of their nephew, Jacob William Kronz, of Carule, Okla., Friday afternoon. He was the 10-month-old son of Matt Kronz of Canute. Other survivors are one sister, Betty Jane, and one brother, Matt, Jr.

The child died the same day as his uncle, Jacob Kronz, Black Creek.

Card Special Events At Butte des Morts

Two special events are carded at Butte des Morts Golf club this week. The men will play twilight golf Thursday afternoon and cap it with supper and social activities in the evening. A quest day is scheduled Saturday.

Trucker Is Fined $10 On Charge of Speeding

Lester A. Schroeder, route 1, Appleton, pleaded guilty of speeding and was fined $10 and costs by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon. The trucker was arrested by city police on N. Badger avenue.

Oil Firm Asks Union Election

Madison —(P)—The state employment relations board had under advisement today a request of the Standard Oil company of Indiana for an election among its 100 rural commission agents to determine a bargaining agency.

Leo Mann, company counsel, informed the board that many of the employees had returned to work following a strike called by their independent union several weeks ago and that they needed bargaining representation. The workers voted during the strike to affiliate with the AFL Truck Drivers union.

The board yesterday declined to conduct a hearing on charges that the independent union interfered with operations of the company after David Previent, union counsel, asserted union claims that the company refused to bargain already were before the National Labor Relations board.

See $500,000 Deficit In State Pension Funds

Madison —(P)—The official magazine of the Wisconsin County Boards association said today state officials were anticipating a deficit of $500,000 in old age pension funds before the end of the present fiscal year next June.

"Because of the size of the expected deficit it is highly unlikely that it can be made up by transfers from other assistance fund surpluses, or by special allocations from the state emergency board," the magazine said.

"The only feasible method of meeting the situation is by the passage of a deficiency appropriation by the next state legislature, which convenes in January. Without such action, proportion of the available funds, with resultant increases in the burdens of local units of government, or decreases in the average benefits paid, will be inevitable."

Miss Nuna Whitcomb, Historian, Is Dead

Milwaukee —(P)—Miss Nuna E. Whitcomb, an authority on American history and organizer of the Wisconsin Genealogical society, died yesterday.

Miss Whitcomb was the daughter of the late Dr. Albert W. Whitcomb, a Sheboygan Falls physician, and Rachel Scott Howard Whitcomb, both members of pioneer Wisconsin families. She had lived in Milwaukee county since 1881.

Funeral services and burial will be in Sheboygan Falls Wednesday.

Committee Meeting

The city council's insurance committee will meet this afternoon in city hall to consider a schedule of insurance on city buildings furnished by the state. The schedule will be submitted to the council Oct. 2.

Run Onto Oldest Birth Certificate in State
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—What is probably the oldest birth certificate in state government files was recently discovered by employees of the state board of health.

The document records the birth of Margarita Oke-wauk, daughter of Augustin de Langlade and a slave of the Sioux tribe, "in the fall of 1746" at Green Bay or "Pauchette."

The certificate was not filed, however, until 1870, two years after Margarita Oke-wauk's death at the age of 122 years. The certificate was filed with Xavier Martin, Brown county register of deeds in 1870, and was duly forwarded to the state bureau.

The President Speaks of Germany

In his Philadelphia address Mr. Roosevelt said that the present plight in which the German people find themselves is due to their loss of the vote.

This is correct. It is accuracy without a flaw.

But is there some curious reason why the President shies away from a discussion of the plight of France? France didn't lose the vote. Yet the French people have lost their liberty and their institutions are under the heavy heel of the conqueror.

France is a much more comparable government to our own than Germany ever was except for the short space of time while the Weimar Constitution held some water. Is the discussion of the French situation forbidden in good Democratic circles? Was the situation there, for the decade before the fall, too blushing similar to what we see in America today? If Mr. Roosevelt were to discuss the plight of the French people could he avoid emphasis upon the graft-ridden condition that preceded ruin? Could he shut his eyes to the fat contractors pulling down the millions and then contributing a part of their ill-gotten gains in an illegal way to perpetuate in power those who had made them fat? Would it be possible to overlook in any sane discussion of the French collapse the tremendous sums spent by that country and wasted through the advice of political engineers, political architects and other political discards whose advice was induced for purely mercenary reasons? And finally, could there be any rational appraisal of the French position without taking directly into consideration the immense public funds squandered for propaganda purposes just to keep the French people quiet while the governing misfits and incompetents brought the Nation to ruin with their eternal grasp for power at any price?

Yes, indeed, a discussion of the French situation would be much more interesting and pertinent. But it would also be damning to the One and Only and his long retinue of municipal functionaries upon whom he depends largely for reelection and who, when not parading, cheering or running drafting conventions operate race tracks, bookie parlors, roulette wheels and the hundred other games of chance and the many vocations that attract the light fingered gentry.

Yes—but Can We Keep It?

As the people exercise their highest function in a democracy this fall it should not do them any harm to be reminded that when the news of the ratification of the constitution of the United States reached wise old Benjamin Franklin back there 151 years ago he was visiting with a European friend who immediately inquired, "Is it a monarchy or a republic?" to which Franklin responded, "A republic—if we can keep it."

Nor is it out of the way to refer to the fact that the great student of mankind, the French statesman de Tocqueville, visiting this country in 1831 and stayed here a long time curiously watching the unique performance of a democracy in action, something then quite unknown in Europe. And de Tocqueville commented in his writings most upon the fact that the people showed such excellent judgment in selecting "the choicest talents and the noblest hearts" to operate their government.

If the same de Tocqueville could come back today and examine this government from stem to stern what would he say about the ability, the talent and the character of those who rule? How would he, for instance, compare the cabinet during the last seven years with any cabinet at Washington during the first 120 years of the republic?

The greatest democracy on the earth was built by the use of the best talent it pleased heaven to place in its men and women. Nothing on the face of the earth requires such capable and astute leaders as government. And however successful America has been in the past is no criterion of the future unless we bring to the aid of the future the same sterling qualities, the same devotion and high-mindedness that kept us afloat in the past.

Our Antiquated Election Machinery

This is harvest time for the politician. All summer he has been busy in fields of growing votes nurturing each tender shoot against the fateful day in November when the ballots are counted and the public officials are selected. Those who note the solicitude of the politician for every voter or any voter during the long summer days, must stand amazed when they note that he shows little or no interest in developing a plan whereby the ballots can be quickly and accurately counted.

As elections are handled today any old slack will do for a polling place, and nearly anyone, regardless of age or physical infirmities will do to receive the ballots and to count them. Election workers go on the job in the polling places at 6 a. m. and in cities receive ballots until 8 p. m. That is a long day for anyone but it is just the beginning for the election worker. The counting starts after 8 p. m. and often continues for hours.

Everyone knows that the counting takes unnecessarily long because the election workers are not trained for the job, because they are often elderly persons who are worn out by the long day in the polling place, and because they are often afflicted with defective eyesight or other physical handicaps.

The politicians know all of these things. They and everyone else who follow elections have more than a suspicion that the counting is not as accurate as it might be. But do politicians do anything about it? They do not. They accept the antiquated system of counting votes as a permanent obstacle to progress which they must endure.

It is true that there are voting machines on the market which supply the totals accurately immediately after the close of the polls, but there is little value to them unless all precincts are equipped with them. The expense seems to be an effective bar to their adoption as a universal means of counting votes, in the immediate future.

But there is a means of speeding up the election returns and of insuring far greater accuracy than we have at present that is inexpensive and readily available to every community in the state.

It is as simple as this. Divide the polling place into two rooms. One room might be an exact duplicate of the present polling places, excepting that there would be no ballot box. The ballot box would be in the second room but connected with the first by a letter slot. The second room would be used merely as a counting room. The counters could come on the job in the afternoon to begin the business of counting the ballots. They would be isolated and guarded against all outside contacts just as a jury is guarded. Beginning their work in the early afternoon they would be finished shortly after the polls closed and it is only reasonable to suppose that their work would be more accurately done than it is now.

The one objection is the fear that information on the progress of the count might leak out before the polls closed, but this can be easily guarded against, just as it is done with juries.

One would think that politicians who besiege newspaper offices for hours on end seeking election returns, and who spend their own time and money trying to get reports from distant points would be interested in modernizing the election machinery. An amendment to the Wisconsin election law would do it.

The Quality of the Legislature

In Wisconsin today there are probably 250 to 300 persons who are candidates for the state legislature on the three party tickets. As legislative candidates they occupy a position in the political system the importance of which is frequently minimized, forgotten, or ignored by the body politic.

In recent years the quality of the Wisconsin legislature has not been such as to warrant boasting to our neighbors in Minnesota or Michigan. There are too many men sent to Madison whose most important objective is collecting $2400 for six or eight months of pleasant work in the statehouse, who have no clearly defined ideas on state government or their duty, who were elected because of the happenstance of identification with a winning political party ticket, who represented no program or philosophy themselves.

It is too often forgotten that the state legislature is the most vital part of the state government, that the states retain their sovereignty despite important invasions from Washington, that the state government regulates the lives and professions of its citizens far more minutely, even today, than does the government at Washington, that in the expression of governmental policy the member of the legislature is more important than the governor, for all his prestige and power.

A little attention by the electorate between now and November of the qualifications and purposes of the men who offer themselves for the job of making the laws which govern us is not only good citizenship, it is good business. It is the way to avoid creek-pot legislative schemes and laws after January 1.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—Although the status of the Battle of Britain remains difficult to estimate, diplomatic cables have pieced together a general picture which can be summarized as follows:

1. Bad weather in the English channel may prevent any invasion of England by troops this year. Another important factor is the havoc wreaked upon Nazi barges in French and Belgian harbors by royal air force bombers.

2. Bad weather will not interrupt the bombing of England to any appreciable extent, and this has almost paralyzed London, making parts of the city a little shambles.

Little by little the R.A.F. has had to back up. At first British airmen were keeping German planes to their side of the channel. Next they met the Nazis on the southern shore of England. Then they retreated inland so that now they do not engage Nazi bombers until they are about half way between London and the sea.

Here the royal air force is holding, but in order to do it, they have had to bring most of their planes down from the north, leaving that part of England relatively unguarded.

So far, the royal air force has not been licked. They are still doing a good job against overwhelming numbers. However, it remains a very strong probability, almost a certainty, that if Hitler wanted to risk sacrificing his entire air force he could knock out the R.A.F. It would be terribly costly, but he could probably do it.

FACTORIES VS. FACTORIES

Meanwhile British bombers have been inflicting terrific punishment on Nazi docks, ships and munitions plants. One American motor manufacturer whose plant in Germany had been taken over by the Nazis, recently reported to Washington officials that he was no longer interested in trying to get the plant back. It had been too heavily damaged by British bombs.

However, it is important to remember that Hitler's arms factories not only are widely scattered throughout Germany, but also in Czechoslovakia and Austria. These areas are located from the range of British bombers—unless they are able to borrow some of our Flying Fortresses.

Boiling it down, the British probably have suffered much more than the Nazis, because British plants are not decentralized; also because the continuous air raids over London interrupt factory production. If 10,000 workers respond to an air raid signal and go into dug-outs for an hour, then there is a loss of 10,000 man-hours of work.

This is one of the biggest factors hampering British airplane production.

DIPLOMAT MORGENTHAU

Shortly before Count de St. Quentin retired as French ambassador to the United States, he asked for an appointment with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for the purpose of discussing French funds frozen in the United States. These were taken over by the United States when Germany invaded France, and the ambassador wanted to have some of them released in order to pay the expenses of French consuls in this country.

Morgenthau knew in advance what the ambassador wanted, so when he arrived, Morgenthau immediately began to talk about the weather, the heat of the Washington summer, where the ambassador had spent his vacation.

Then he switched to the problem of caring for the roses, grass around the treasury department, also talked about his fruit farm up the Hudson, then about a lot of other things.

By this time, the ambassador's time had elapsed, and he had not put in a word. He departed without even mentioning his request for funds.

Afterward, Secretary Morgenthau phoned the state department, reported what had happened during the call. "Don't you think I'm a pretty good diplomat?" he said.

Note—Morgenthau already has allowed France funds to operate the embassy here plus various other offices, but the Bank of France, now completely controlled by the Nazis, is doing its best to lay hands upon the $1,500,000,000 in gold which France has frozen in the United States.

VICE PRESIDENT STAYS HOME

One thing which amazed, later gripped Vice President Garner's colleagues on Capitol Hill was his failure to attend the funeral of his old friend Speaker Bankhead.

Not only did the president himself drop all his work to make the funeral trip to Jasper, but Henry Wallace canceled three campaign speaking engagements to fly from Des Moines to Alabama; and six members of the cabinet, together with the under secretary of state, Sumner Welles, and Under Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, canceled important engagements to attend the last rites of the much-loved speaker of the House.

The vice president, who had known Bankhead longer than perhaps any of them, and who served side by side with him in the house of representatives for about a quarter of a century, remained on his goat farm in Texas.

Note—The El Paso Herald Post, commenting on Garner's absence from Washington at this congress, recently said:

"John Garner has not been aiding in the struggle to make the nation secure—the nation which in the last 40 years has honored him with high position and paid him and his wife-secretary $500,000 for their services. . . . He has sulked among his goats. It is not of record, however, that John Garner has refused the salary to which he is entitled but has not earned."

"For 40 years the taxpayers have trained John Garner in the ways of legislation and of governing, and today in one of the greatest crises in history, he loafs. Texas is humiliated."

"AMERICA'S SWEETHEART"

One incident during Wendell Willkie's Hollywood visit was a secret between him and Mary Pickford. "America's Sweetheart" invited him to "Pickfair," her vast and ornate mansion, but the GOP standard-bearer courteously but firmly declined.

He was too smart to get mixed up in the movie colony's hectic social feuds. Miss Pickford is an enthusiastic Willkie devotee. She visited him at Colorado Springs. But there are many other votes in Hollywood, and Willkie was not stepping on any toes if he could help it.

Instead of following the trail of nobility to the Pickford mansion, he met the heterogeneous folks of the film industry, from stars to sweeps, in a big gathering at the Hollywood Bowl. They assembled there to hear his speech, delivered at the Coliseum, via loudspeakers, and later he came to the Bowl and greeted them personally.

Note—Willkie has been astute in his public contacts. In Chicago he carefully avoided the Ford plant, although the anti-union motor magnate had visited him at Rushville, and at Kansas City he sidestepped former Senator Reed, violent anti-New Dealer and National Labor Board foe.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

For admission to a press conference with Secretary of War Stimson, newsmen must be equipped with identification cards, colored bright red. . . . "The Republican," official organ of the Young Republican National Federation, urges Willkie to name four or five cabinet members now, and campaign not with a two-man ticket but with a six- or seven-man ticket.

CONSCRIPTION AND ENGLAND

Editor Post-Crescent—When it comes to building an army, events of the last year go to show how men can quickly change their mind.

A year ago if anyone had bet that by the end of the year of Our Lord, 1940, our government would have set in motion the machinery and we would be on our way with a conscript army, the odds would have been very great and perhaps a person would have been thought to be crazy. And if anyone of our public officials had wagered a year ago that Americans would be called upon to be the policemen of all South America let alone the Western Hemisphere we would in all probability have considered that official ready for entrance into the crazy house. But now, after an artificial build up to the necessity for conscription we find that with the President's signature to the Burke-Wadsworth bill such day dreaming has crystallized into law.

Needless to say it will always be a thorn in our side to remember that the voluntary system of enlistment was never given an American chance.

In the last war Americans found out that they weren't fighting so much for democracy as they were to maintain England's stragglatory economic and financial hold on the rest of the world. But that was the first time, and Americans were completely fooled so they volunteered to "Keep the world safe for democracy."

Not so this time, however, England again is in danger of a break up of the empire she built through conquest, and it seems that Americans were more skeptical of joining England and this nation doesn't want to go to war. But some excuse must be found for getting American boys into uniform and shouldering guns. So the fear element was introduced, the fear promulgated by those in Washington that Hitler would come over here.

Just to show that the cause of England isn't exactly the right side let me quote from the book, a semi secret publication, entitled "Propaganda in the next war," by Sydney Rogers which was written and published. I quote: "There can be no doubt that the next war will be billed as a fight between democracy and dictatorship. It may, in fact, be nothing of the sort. In the ultimate resort, alliances will be made on the basis of material advantage, not the possession of a common ideological belief but in our propaganda, we must make the facts fit our case as far as possible. We shall represent the struggle in the propaganda, which we shall be compelled to do toward France, the United States of America, and our own empire as Democracy and Freedom vs. Dictatorship and Persecution."

In the debate on the Anti-Neutrality bill in congress, Gerald P. Nye, United States senator from North Dakota, made a congressional document of the book in order to show "the existence of a basic plan of propaganda to involve us in the next war."

So now we are going to have a conscript army and the American soldier will be liable for service not to defend America but to police the whole western hemisphere. The thought of policing the rest of this hemisphere would have seemed absurd a few short months ago. But it will take no large stretch of the imagination to visualize that once we have this conscript army in readiness we shall be told to follow the logic of the present administration, that we should include Europe as well in our police work and finally become involved forcibly in the conflict.

Naturally, there will be other view points, but basing my judgment on the knowledge disclosed when secret state documents of the Wilson administration were revealed to the public by congressional investigation a few short years ago, and living in the expectation that history will repeat itself I will venture to predict that history will prove that the 124 men in congress who had the courage to vote against the conscription bill had appraised the situation correctly. They will be looked upon by Americans as heroes just as are the handful who voted against our entering into the last war.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

New Automobile models are being shown already. You can now get tired of next year's model before this year is half over.

Several manufacturers are out with their 1941 line, and a feature of 'em is low gas consumption, 25 to 30 miles per gallon being claimed for at least one. Fuel economy is the thing today, and not even a rich man wants to see how much extra he can spend for gas any more. It's just like driving two horses to town when one is all that's necessary.

Air conditioning is a new talking point, the air being filtered and kept at a given temperature by just pressing a button. All this new model needs is a double feature and screen.

The 1940 automobile show in New York is only a couple of weeks away. This used to be a mid-winter event, but it comes right after the Miss America contests and hay fever these days.

There won't be a running board left on the 1941 models. Where is a

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—If it is assumed that the Republican party of Wisconsin is warranted in looking forward to victory in November, and that its power in the state government and the state legislature will be maintained or extended, look for a short and snappy legislative session next winter.

Heil has asked to be re-elected to "finish my job," but he has given no clues which indicate that any new policies or programs will be initiated in his second term—if he gets a second term.

The governor has shown in countless speeches that he takes a strictly financial view of his job, a dollars and cents view. If he holds his 1939 majority, expect continued efforts to whittle down the expenditures of the state government, but little new in the structure or function of the state government or its departments.

One problem which may furnish some difficulty as a revenue bill, but it is likely that Heil learned a lesson from his experiences early in 1939, when he allowed the law-makers to drift according to their own lights for six months without offering his program. This time, it may be expected he will have his ideas ready for submission and the session will be short and sweet, perhaps shorter than any other in recent years.

Expect a revival soon of the proposition that the state assume the burden of old age pension costs now carried by the counties. On the ground that the local governments' tax base is no longer able to maintain the load.

One county official from northern Wisconsin recently explained that the state is already carrying a large part of the local share of pension costs in his locality. But that the advances are charged to the county on state bonds. Sometime soon, he said, the state is going to demand repayment, and the county will be unable to do so. Such a situation would present the problem strifing enough to warrant serious consideration of a change in the financing program, he predicted.

Recently in this space it was written that Dr. James K. Robinson's power against Governor Heil in the Republican primary was the more remarkable because Dr. Robinson was practically unknown in politics, and had no organization.

A correspondent writes to say that Dr. Robinson had some of the campaign workers employed by the Heil for governor club in 1938, and that they distributed "thousands of petitions against the cigaret tax."

PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

Perhaps the most ingenious, effective and thorough-going publicity campaign conducted in Wisconsin politics in a long time was that sponsored on behalf of Candidate Harold E. Stafford, Progressive, in the recent primary by Arnold Sower, secretary of Stafford's campaign club.

Sower formerly worked for the Wisconsin State Journal in Madison, not so long ago was writing Gridiron banquet skits at the University of Wisconsin.

Largely through unremitting publicity stunts, Stafford, a relatively obscure upstate Progressive politician six months ago, was able to give Orland S. Loomis, a front rank Progressive leader for a decade, a real contest for the Progressive nomination.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

ARE ROLLS EXERCISE?

A reader concedes he has regarded me as an authority on first aid medicine (he doesn't mention health, however) for years he has been reading this column, but when I go outside of my field and assert my knowledge of something I know about, even contradicting the dictionary, I lead my readers to wonder about the rest of it. The man refers to my definition of somersault in an article recently printed here under the title "How Old is Fifty?"

Webster is correct, the reader informs me, and a somersault is done completely in the air, not on the ground. It is not limited to acrobatics; the term is widely used in the familiar sport of diving.

What I describe under the name of somersault, my friend explains, is simply a roll, forward roll, backward roll, and if I use the correct term there will be no misunderstanding. . . .

By George—I wonder now if there was some such misunderstanding on the part of the man who threatened to sue me for damages when his wife, as he alleged, darn near broke her neck trying to turn somersaults.

Our reader continues: Other activities than medicine have their nomenclatures, Dr. Brady. You can pick up one of a hundred books on gymnastics work, aerobics, swimming, and find both somersaults and rolls described and probably illustrated.

"Air spring" is merely an absurdity.

"Absurdity, eh? Charlie Bradburn didn't think so the first time he tried it on the sidewalk in front of Chapel Street school and landed on his—"

A spring has a point of departure, either the ground or a springboard, or a part of the body, as in hand-spring, headspring, neckspring, all well known terms.

This isn't important. I just thought you might like to have correct information on a matter outside your field of knowledge. (H. N. W.)

Friend W. probably is unaware of it, but two or three years ago, I recall with anguish, I gave up a long struggle to delete the superfluous S from iodine, in deference to Dr. Webster and a few million newspaper readers who seemed to be confused by my spelling—I gave it up except for the spelling of the word my way in the name of the Jodin Ration.

Technically H.N.W. is probably correct, yet in common parlance somersault may signify merely "a turning end over end," as so good an authority as Webster defines it. Call it whatever you like, but do it as I describe and illustrate in the Invitation to the Somersaultauqua which I am happy to send to any correspondent who asks for it and incloses a stamped envelope bearing his or her address. Whatever it is, it isn't exercise, too a half dozen, or turns around the bedroom floor first thing on rising put one in the mood to carry thru with the regular morning exercises.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Home Made Yeast

A neighbor first used compressed yeast with potato water and a little sugar. Others obtained a "starter" from her, and grow their own yeast by adding some of yesterday's to fresh potato water and a little sugar for today. Is this wholesome. It makes fine bread. (Mrs. S. T. N.)

Answer—Perfectly wholesome.

Fat
Please explain why pure olive oil is so highly prized as a medicine or nourishing food (W.R.M.)

Answer—There is no particular reason why it should be more highly prized than cotton seed oil, peanut oil, sesame oil or other vegetable oil for any purpose.

Sweating Feet

What to use for my poor tired

feet? My feet sweat excessively. (F. L.)

Answer—Avoid hot bathing of feet, use only cold water on them, or better none. Dry rub with towel is better. Apply to soles and between toes each evening for three or four evenings in succession a solution of one ounce of standard formaldehyde solution in one-half pint of water. Keep this off from your fingers. Let it dry in the air. Occasional applications, say once a week, should control the sweating. Some of the same solution may be poured into each shoe, swished around to moisten entire insole, drained out, the shoe set in sun or open air to dry for a day before wearing. Such treatment of shoes every month or so keeps them free from bad odor. Other foot troubles dealt with in booklet "Care of the Feet"—for copy send ten cents and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Can you suggest any diet or other remedy for stomach ulcers? (W.J.C.)

Answer—Send ten cents coin and 1-cent stamped envelope bearing your address for booklet "So You Have Indigestion?"

It Is Stupid

Some of your peculiar slants leave one wondering. . . . recently I noticed you called people who have hemorrhoids "stupid." Has it become a mark of intelligence? (C. H.)

Answer—Yes, indeed, but we haven't space to explain here. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and as for pamphlet "It Is Stupid to Suffer from Piles"—and please note the difference between what I say and what you impute to me.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. "The general attacks of the French and British on the western front have failed," an Overseas News agency dispatch from Berlin read. "Naturally, the Germans have suffered great losses. But the allies' report of having taken 20,000 prisoners was believed to be exaggerated."

Looking in the pink of condition except that he had a slight limp, Harry Sylvester arrived home the previous night after having finished the season with the champion New Orleans baseball team. But for an accident in which he broke his leg, Sylvester probably would have led the Southern league, being one of five in the league to hit over 300.

U.S. Considers Strong Stand In Tokio Drive

Pacific was developing from diplomatic conversations here was not indicated by officials. Secretary Hull maintained extreme reserve on the subject.

In a brief statement yesterday he said merely that the situation in Indo-China was confused but that it seemed obvious "the status quo is being upset and that this is being achieved under duress." He reiterated the governments position "in disapproval and in deprecation of such procedures."

Among possibilities suggested in unofficial quarters for reinforcing expressions of disapproval were:

Sending some units of the fleet now based at Hawaii to the far Pacific, attaching them to the Asiatic squadron and possibly basing them at Singapore in agreement with Britain.

Recall of Ambassador Joseph C. Grew from Tokio for "consultation," a method used more than two years ago to indicate disapproval of German policies.

A complete embargo on oil, scrap iron and other supplies now subject to an export licensing system but still obtained in considerable quantities by Japan.

An increased supply of military supplies and planes to the Netherlands East Indies to strengthen them against a possible Japanese thrust.

Fighting Stops

Hanoi, French Indo-China.—(P)—Fighting between French and Japanese forces along the northern boundary of French Indo-China was reported to have stopped overnight and official French sources said today their troops had been ordered to withhold their fire unless attacked.

Thus, it was said, the French colonial authorities gave the Tokio representative, General Isaku Nishihara, every opportunity to halt the Japanese South China command's threatened land, sea and air onslaught against northern Indo-China without further bloodshed.

Informed French sources said General Nishihara had hastened from Haiphong aboard a Japanese minelayer to confer with leaders of the Japanese troopship Armada in Tonkin gulf.

Nishihara was said to have persuaded the Armada commander to halt his advance toward Haiphong until Nishihara could go on to Hainan island to discuss the situation with General Ando, commanding the Japanese South China army.

(A Domei dispatch from Tokio also reported all quiet along the Indo-China border today. The dispatch estimated the Japanese had suffered about 100 casualties in previous fighting.)

Residents of Hanoi and all northern Tonkin were awakened early today when 12 Japanese planes circled over the city. The French said their anti-aircraft batteries withheld fire and the planes left without incident.

Vichy.—(P)—The French foreign office today charged Japanese troops with crossing the Chinese frontier into Indo-China and violating an accord for a "new Asian order" with the result that more than 100 Frenchmen, including a colonel, were killed.

The agreement signed last Sunday at Hanoi provided that Japanese garrisons for newly-granted airdromes would arrive at the port of Haiphong, a communique said. It declared no permission had been given for troops to cross the northern border.

A solution to the incident is being sought in diplomatic conversations in Tokio.

New York.—(P)—Japan will resist with all her means any attempt by the United States to make Singapore a base for naval forces in the Pacific, Domei, Japanese news agency, quoted the newspaper Kokumin, often on an army mouthpiece, in a broadcast today.

1 Killed in Crash Following Wedding

Spooner, Wis.—(P)—George Donatelli, 40, was killed and Tony Lombard was injured seriously yesterday in an automobile accident as they returned from a wedding. Lombard's car left Highway 70 on a curve and struck a tree. They had attended the wedding of Donatelli's sister and Lombard's brother.

Oshkosh Man Dies in Fall From Scaffold

Charleston, W. Va.—(P)—Randall R. Sawings, 30, a bricklayer from Oshkosh, Wis., slipped and fell four stories to his death from a department store scaffold yesterday.

Find Body

Milwaukee.—(P)—The body of a man identified by a driver's license as R. Karas, of Wausau, Wis., was found in a downtown hotel room yesterday after hotel employees had forced the door. The police found two farewell notes and a bottle which had contained sleeping tablets. The coroner's office said no inquest would be held.

Lutheran Organizations Plan Conventions in Middle West

Omaha, Neb.—(P)—Clergymen and laymen of the Lutheran faith will come to the middle west for the first time in the church's history next month for their biennial international conventions.

Three big meetings, one in Des Moines, Iowa, and the others in Omaha, will occupy most of the first half of October.

The international convention of the Women's Missionary society will be held Oct. 5 to 9 in Des Moines.

Meeting simultaneously in Omaha, the Lutheran Brotherhood will begin sessions Oct. 6 and wind up its convention two days later in preparation for the third and largest gathering.

This is the twelfth biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America, scheduled for Oct. 9 to 16.

Church officials declared that the 555 delegates, both lay and clerical, will represent a total of 1,250,000 Lutherans in nearly every state, seven Canadian provinces and India and Japan.

One important question to come before the body will be the responsibility for mission stations in 10 foreign countries orphaned by world war conditions.

Final decision on the union of the American Lutheran church with headquarters at Columbus, Ohio, and the United Lutheran church with international offices in New York, is expected.

The American Lutheran church, which meets Oct. 11 in Detroit, Mich., also is scheduled to act on the same proposition.

In previous years the United Lutherans have held their international conventions east of the Mississippi river and this year marks the first departure from that tradition.

Katharine Lenroot Is Recognized for Work

New York.—(P)—Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau of the United States department of labor, yesterday was awarded the 1940 Parents' magazine medal for outstanding service to children.

The award marked 26 years with the bureau which Miss Lenroot has headed since 1934.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt received the medal in 1939. In past years it went to Walt Disney, Dr. Walter Dammrosch and Dr. Thomas Parrott, surgeon general of the United States public health service.

Buys 11 Buffaloes as Watch Dogs for Farm

Lincoln, Neb.—(P)—It's costing him $305, but F. A. Reichenback believes that thieves hereafter will steer clear of his Polk City, Ia., turkey farm.

He purchased 11 buffaloes from pioneers park here to serve as "watch dogs" for his flocks, recently depleted by prowlers.

French Planes In Bomb Raid On Gibraltar

British naval vessels shelled the city for eight hours, had raged all night in a heavy fog.

Government sources said the French were replying to the British "cannon shot for cannon shot" and said all landing attempts would meet fierce resistance.

It was indicated the British operations were aimed at trying to surround the city by land and cut it off from the interior. This move was viewed here as a prelude to an attempt to wrest the entire colony from the Pétain regime.

India docks and Waterloo station in London, and reported airtight over several towns in the south of England.

These fights were still going on during the afternoon, the official German wireless said.

DNE, official German news agency, declared the Nazi raiders had heavily bombed industrial facilities at Newcastle and had started great fires in several war-important objectives. The agency said German bombers exploded and fired a munition store at Great Yarmouth.

The nocturnal British attack on Berlin, during which bombs hurled down on the city and its outskirts, gave the German capital its longest air-raid alarms of the year.

The city was kept under alarm for 3 hours and 47 minutes. A blaze visible from the central district glowed in the Moabit area of northwest Berlin—a region of factories and workers' homes.

County Medical Society To Hold Golf Meeting

The Outagamie County Medical society will hold its annual golf meeting at the Riverview Country club Thursday. Dinner will be served in the club house at 6:30 in the evening. Dr. John O. Dietler, Milwaukee, will speak on "Common Lesions of the Shoulder Joint."

During the day Dr. Dietler will conduct an orthopedic clinic at the Appleton Orthopedic school.

Renamed Chairman

Aberdeen, S. D.—(P)—William Pick of Milwaukee was reelected general chairman of the Milwaukee system council No. 23 of the International Brotherhood of Firemen, Oilers, Helpers, Roundhouse and Railway Shop Laborers, in biennial convention here yesterday.

Myron E. Thomas of Miles City, Mont., was chosen vice chairman and Myron G. Jewett of Milwaukee was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Fog Hampers British

The heavy fog which shrouds the coast frequently at this time of year was said to be hampering the movements of the British troops.

Under cover of heavy gun fire from warships, one transport approached Reisque bay and anchored shortly before 1 a. m., said dispatches reaching here.

A landing party of not more than 200 men immediately set out for the shore.

They were met by machine-gun fire and the Dakar dispatch said the troops were forced back to the ship.

Several other less serious attempts to land also were reported by the French forces at Dakar, said to total four regiments, or 6,000 men.

In a telegram to Governor General Pierre Boisson of French West Africa, Marshal Philippe Pétain expressed his "entire confidence" in the French African forces.

"France is following with emotion and confidence your resistance to mercenary treason and British aggression," said the Telegram.

"Under your high authority Dakar is showing an example of courage and fidelity. All metropolitan France is proud of your attitude and resolution and of the forces you command. I congratulate you and express my entire confidence."

London.—(P)—General Charles de Gaulle, leader of "free Frenchmen," was reported today to have withdrawn his "free French" troops and drawn from Dakar. French West Africa, after several of his emissaries, carrying the white flag of the truce, were fired on and killed.

De Gaulle, a communique from his headquarters declared, withdrew when blood was spilled, "not wanting to be a party to a fight between Frenchmen."

At the same time, the British ministry of information declared "there is no truth in reports emanating from Vichy that any British landing at or near Dakar has been attempted."

Reuters, British news agency, however, said it learned here this afternoon that "operations at Dakar are now in progress."

Presumably, this meant action by the British naval force which accompanied General de Gaulle to Dakar, although the French leader's announcement did not disclose the present whereabouts of his fleet (of four sloops).

Says America Is Interdependent

The United States has changed from an independent, self-sufficient country to one that is interdependent, Donald M. DuShane, dean of students at Lawrence college, said in a convocation talk yesterday at Memorial chapel.

Speaking of the many changes that have occurred in recent years, DuShane said that "mankind is in need of greater tolerance, greater appreciation, and greater understanding."

Institutions, the dean said, must adapt themselves to the changes or disappear. "We need to answer other questions than those we have been asking, for we need to know why and what it is for rather than how it will work," he said.

Want Further Proof Of Man's Innocence

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—The Michigan parole board declined today to recommend a pardon for Jere Snodgrass, Toledo, Ohio, druggist who served a year in state prison for a crime he contends he did not commit.

Snodgrass was convicted May 22, 1939, at Adrian, after eight witnesses identified him as the person who tried to pass worthless checks at their business establishment. He was sentenced to three to 14 years, but was paroled May 2, 1940, after similar checks continued to appear in Ohio and Michigan. State police expressed belief they were passed by a notorious confidence man similar to Snodgrass in appearance.

A. Ross Pascoe, parole board chairman, informed Governor Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan today he believed "we should take no further action until the guilty person, if another be thought guilty, is found and convicted."

Order Briefs Filed In Injunction Case

Filing of briefs within a week was ordered by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon at a hearing on a demurrer filed by the defendants on the injunction of the Oscar Boldt Construction company preventing picketing by the Appleton Building trades of his job at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church.

Judge Ryan also dismissed a charge of assault and battery against Ira R. Capelle, Fond du Lac, and a charge of using abusive language against Charles Debenack, 829 W. Brewster street, president of the Appleton Building trades. Both had pleaded not guilty to the charges and each was the plaintiff in the action against the other. The charges grew out of an altercation between union pickets and workmen at the remodeling job at the church. The building trades charge Boldt has refused to sign a closed shop agreement.

Milwaukee Firm Must Pay Back Wages to 3 Ousted Charwomen

Madison.—(P)—The state employment relations board today ordered the Century Building company of Milwaukee to pay $905.96 in back wages to three charwomen employees who had been discharged.

The board ruled a year ago the women had been dismissed in violation of the state labor act and the supreme court, after an appeal by the company, ordered them reinstated.

The board then held a supplemental hearing to determine the amount of wages due. It fixed $143.77 as the amount owing to Anna Schoman and $349.58 to Catherine Machak, who had been required. For Frances Knapke, who was not reinstated and did not find another job, the board allowed $412.61, including $1.75 a day until she was reinstated or found equivalent work.

In another order the board denied the petition of five sewing machine fixers for the Phoenix Hosiery company of Milwaukee, who sought an election to determine a bargaining unit. It said existing contracts covering the employees could not be upset.

General Motors Chief For Willkie Election

Pittsburgh.—(P)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors Corporation, declared today the election of Wendell L. Willkie as president "is bound to bring about a new note of confidence" in the national economy.

Declaring himself in favor of the Republican candidate's election, Sloan said in a general press interview that "when the time comes for liquidating the national defense program, with Wendell Willkie as president, you will have coming in to the economy more confidence in private enterprise."

Child Is Injured In Accident With Auto

Clark Barnes, 5, 1520 W. Franklin street, suffered a bruised left knee in an accident involving a car driven by Horace Collip, 46, 1103 S. Lawe street, about 11:15 yesterday morning on Outagamie street. The child stepped from in front of a parked car, it was reported to police.

Cars driven by Dora Scheurle, 1321 N. Union street, and Emil Scholz, 43, 220 N. Oneida street, were involved in a minor collision about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Scheurle car was going east on College avenue, and Scholz west and making a turn to go south on Walnut street when the accident occurred.

Pegler Figured Browne Left A Tuft of His Pelt Somewhere

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago.—If you have been reading my series of little mash notes to the gorillas in the American Federation of Labor you may have noticed symptoms of bashfulness in my characterization of George Browne, the president of the stage hands union or racket. Mr. Browne has no criminal record that I have been able to find, so in calling him a gangster or racketeer I have had to rely on a liberal interpretation of the terms. But I felt sure that a man of his low associations must have left a tuft of his pelt in the police records somewhere along the line and I was right.

The files of the Evangelical Deaconess hospital show that at 4 o'clock in the morning of Jan. 27, 1925, George E. Browne, business agent of the theatrical protective union, was brought in, for treatment of a gunshot wound, by an unidentified man who immediately high-tailed out of there. The bullet had struck in the left hip. Dr. Schamschvow, the interne, iodined the wound and the patient paid $5 and was taken to the Bridewell or prison hospital, refusing to give any information regarding the shooting.

The next day's papers said the patient told the police, "I'll take care of this myself, don't disturb your- self about it." An old accident report at the detective bureau also says the patient refused to say where or how the shooting occurred. That was in the gangster tradition.

The surgeon who operated identifies him as our hoodlum friend, George Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Operators and member of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

We now skip out to the moldy rooming house on the north side and interview a strange and pathetic creature named Herbert Green, who is lying on an iron bed listening to an old-fashioned, banjo-type radio as we knock on the door. He opens the door cautiously, explaining that he was afraid someone was coming to get him. Then he dredges his false teeth out of a glass and sits on the bed to tell his story.

A Mr. Green Tells About Night It Happened

There is a dent in Mr. Green's skull the size of a chickadee's nest, inflicted, so he says, by Browne's boss in the union racket, Mr. Willie Bioff, who has just finished, very belatedly, a 6-month sentence for shaking down prostitutes. Mr. Green says he was a candidate for a minor office in the movie projectionists' racket back in December, 1933, and that Bioff, wishing to eliminate this rivalry, conked him with a blackjack. Green came to five days later in the county hospital, and, judging from the look of the wound, the person who took the divot was bent on execution, not admonition.

Green is a brother-in-law of George Browne and says he was the one who delivered Browne to the hospital that night in 1925.

"I was working in the Chateau theater," says Herbert Green, "and this Brooks, he run a saloon on 47th near Ashland, he called up and says come on over and get Browne as he was playing with that gun of his and waving it around like he always done when he would get drunk. So I got there and he was stunk."

Marketing Agreements Act Will Be Clarified

Washington.—(P)—Speedy approval of legislation clarifying provisions of the marketing agreements act affecting the dairy industry was sought today by a group of dairy state congressmen.

Representative Reed (R-N. Y.) said the group had urged the house agriculture committee to report out promptly a bill which was passed by the senate last week. Agriculture officials said the measure strengthened sections of the marketing agreements act dealing with milk marketing orders and thus would protect the act against "costly litigation."

THE WAY TO A MAN'S HEART...

(Yes, through his stomach, as the old saw says)

A man truly belongs to the animal kingdom when he sits down to a well-set table!

There's that aroma rising from an oozing roast. And the smoke-steam from hot biscuits and melting butter. And the bright colors of fresh vegetables and the tart salad. And—sure—a challenging mountain of fluffy, white mashed potatoes with brown, rich gravy to crawl over it!

Back of this invitation to hearty eating is the story of two sharp eyes. They belong to the housewife who planned and prepared the meal. She practiced considerable wizardry in the kitchen, of course. But long before the food even reached her house she had assured the success of her meal.

She read the food advertisements in this newspaper. She selected her meal with studied care. And she set a table fit for a king... on an every-day allowance! By reading the advertisements she served well... and saved money!

30 New Members Initiated Into Club at School

Everything from farewells to greetings was backward at the initiation party of the German club of Appleton High school Monday evening in the Early American room. The novitiates came with their clothes on backward and they were bade "goodnight" as they entered the front door.

The program opened with the singing of Brahms' "Lullaby." After refreshments were served, the initiates were admitted formally into the organization. "The American Way," a 3-act drama by Moss Hart and George Kaufman, was presented by a reading cast consisting of Edgar Thomas, Jean Watson, Frances Galpin, Fred Heinrich, Walter Miller, Jean Feavel, James Jermanson, June Fumal, Janet Jones, Oscar Boldt, and Gerald Sawall. Mary Bob Knapp was the interactor. The plot was concerned with the lives of two German immigrants who settled in the middle west and became loyal American citizens.

Gladys Lust was party chairman. She was assisted by June Weisgerber, Betty Greb and Betty Collins. Faculty sponsors are Miss Sophia Haase and Norval Henn, German instructors. Henn, who joined the faculty this fall, also was initiated at the party. The other new members are Janet Bixby, Boldt, Alvin Brown, Joyce Coley, Miss Collins, Arlene Dewey, Miss Feavel, Helen Fox, June Fumal, Sally Gorrow, Miss Greb, Elizabeth Haug, Heinrich, Janet Jones, Eugene Kilborn, Sylvia Koepke, Billie Kolb, Etta Manning, Joseph Merkes, Edward Reuter, Margaret Rohan, Paul Schafhauser, Sawall, Lincoln Scheurle, Miss Weisgerber, Doris Werner, Ned Young and John Zwicker.

Women are Prone to Write Letters Filled With Grief

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I love my mother-in-law. I know she is in deep grief over the death of her husband and I would not hurt her for the world, but she is simply killing my husband by writing him tear-stained letters that absolutely wreck him. He loved his father-in-law as much as I do, but he realizes he has to go on with life and is making a brave effort to do so. I try to cheer him and buck him up, but every time he seems to be getting back to normal he comes a letter from his mother telling him in minute detail of every pain, anguish, sorrow and loneliness she experiences. Says she will never be a bit happier, that she has nothing to live for, that she wishes she was in the grave with her husband, how she can't eat and has to take drugs to sleep, and so on and so on. Every letter is like sticking a knife in my husband's heart, for it makes him feel that his mother's sufferings are almost beyond bearing. Is there any way that I can stop her from this cruel harrowing up of my husband's feelings without offending her?

AN ANXIOUS WIFE.

Answer: I am afraid your mother-in-law is getting a morbid joy out of dramatizing her grief and your husband is her most responsive audience. No consideration for his sufferings nor for the effect her letters have upon him is going to stop her, for all emotions sorrow is the most selfish and self-centered.

The only thing you can do is to try to make your husband believe the truth, and that is that women don't mean half they write and should never be taken too seriously.

There seems to be something in a sheet of good white paper and a bottle of ink that fires their fancies and sets their imagination working and makes them visualize themselves in romantic and tragic roles that causes them to write down things that they neither feel nor believe.

Foolish Letter Writing

Look at all the foolish love letters that girls write to boys for whom they do not care at all, just because they feel that they are being poetical in pouring out passionate vows of devotion on paper. Think of the indiscreet letters that women write in which they tell family secrets that they should have their right hands cut off for revealing.

And, believe me, the letters of hopeless grief that women write belong in this same category. They are the outcroppings of a woman's self-pity and trying to keep the spotlight turned on herself by calling the attention of others to her sufferings.

When they write they know that the reader visualizes them as Niobes leaning over a grave with every thought and every interest buried in it, when, in reality, they are quite chirpy and taking an interest in seeing that their new mourning is becoming and eating three square meals a day.

Somewhere we all take the written word much more seriously than we do the spoken word, and that makes the writing of depressing letters little less than a crime. Yet it is one to which women are peculiarly addicted.

All of us have correspondents who are really quite cheerful, normal women, yet whose letters are so filled with gloom that we hesitate to open them. They never, by any chance, mention anything pleasant that has occurred, but they give us minute accounts of every tragedy that has happened in the community.

Try to get your husband to look at his mother's letters from this point of view.

Don't Give Up What You Earn

Dear Dorothy Dix—Recently my stepdaughter married a young man who didn't have a cent above the marriage license, not even a part-time job, and they went straight from the marriage license office to the Relief Bureau. Neither the father nor I have ever met the young man. I have been married to the girl's father for 15 years; have worked hard side by side with him getting together the little business that makes a support for us two, but it will not take care of two families. Now the in-laws think it is my place to step out and give the girl and her husband all that I have helped build up, but I do not feel that I should give up my home, and my security to these young people who are stronger and more capable of coping with the world than I am, as I am a woman past 50. What should I do?

MRS. F. P. E.

Stick to your job. Hang on with both hands to all that you have made. Let these selfish young people shift for themselves. It is a terrible thing when a young man and woman have so little sense of responsibility, so little pride and self-respect that they marry without any means of meeting the obligations they have assumed, knowing that they are going to be parasites who will have to be supported by the work of others.

Stick to Wife You Have Chosen

Dear Miss Dix—I earn my living with my brain and my particular pleasure in life is good conversation and discussions, anything mentally stimulating. When I married a pretty young girl five years ago, I knew she was no mental giant, but I thought she would improve. She hasn't.

We love each other deeply and so far have been happy. She is thoughtful, unselfish, a fine cook, a good housekeeper, enjoys the same sports that I do and is a real pal and a good wife, but I have never yet been able to adjust myself to her vacuous conversation and her dull remarks in company. Nor can I avoid the fear that in later years when golf and swimming and baby talk are out of the picture that our present married happiness may cease. What can you suggest?

Answer: You can't change a Dumb Dora into a Dorothy Parker, so you will have to meet the situation philosophically and console yourself with the thought that you can't have everything in marriage.

After all, you spend most of your life in association with people who are your mental equal, and coming home at night to a wife who is sweet and amiable and who makes you a comfortable home isn't the worst that could befall you.

And don't forget that your wife is your pick.

THE HOME GARDENER by EDWIN H. PERKINS

If you are one of the persons who simply must apply lime to your lawn each season, you will find this the most favorable time of the year. Agricultural lime, applied now, will be washed into the soil by autumn's rains and the soil will greatly benefit from the liming, after freezing.

Along with the application of lime can well go a good dusting of bone. Several forms of agricultural bone are available to seed stores. There are the rough ground bone, bone meal and bone flour. The one to select will be controlled in large measure by your soil. In light soil, which is easily tilled, it is just as well to rake in some rough ground bone. On heavy turfs the use of bone meal is recommended and used on the heaviest clay since even a light raking will encourage it to enter the soil.

The use of fertilizer is a moot question and it seems foolish to waste the energies of a high-grade chemical fertilizer in a lawn hardly in growing condition. Manure is generally not recommended.

If you must use manure, it is recommended that you wait until the ground has frozen well, then mulch the lawn heavily with it. Winter snows and spring thaws will carry its food elements to the grass roots and when spring comes the residue of the mulch can be raked off.

For a change, cook spaghetti or noodles in a ring mold. Steam or bake until the ring will stay together, unroll and fill and surround with chili con carne, cream cheese sauce or chop suey.

Streamlined Homesteading I wish we could help subsidize happy homes, as we have long subsidized steamship and airplane companies, by grubstaking young couples to a tiny cottage and a plot of ground. Let the government take a mortgage on the invested capital, if need be, at very low interest rates.

In the old days, the government used to buy land, as in the Louisiana Purchase and then give it away, outright, to homesteaders who

Can Keep Own Score In Exam

BY ELY CULBERTSON

As announced yesterday the 1940 national self-rating bridge examination will start in this column on Monday, Sept. 30.

Last year it was thought best to forego a bridge exam. Judging from the thousands of letters I have received it was not a popular decision. The tenor of these letters is that with half the world mad and the other half jittery there is all the greater need for such "escape" activities as bridge and, more specifically, bridge problems.

For the benefit of readers who missed yesterday's column I shall restate the condition of this examination.

Each week day, beginning Sept. 30 and continuing for five weeks, one or two questions on bidding or play will appear in this column. Exactly one week later the question will be restated and the official answer given.

Each examinee begins with 1,000 points. If he answers a question incorrectly he will be deducted exactly how many points to deduct from that 1,000. Some "tough" questions will carry credits rather than demerits, that is, the contestant who "flunks" these questions will not lose any points, but those who answer correctly will add a given number of points to their running total.

Obviously it is easy for a contestant to keep his own score. But, as in past years, many probably will prefer to have their answers rated by me. This they can do, without charge by mailing me their answers once a week. If you wish to take advantage of this offer hold each week's answers to the Saturday or Sunday at the end of each week, then put all answers in one envelope (being sure to mark each answer according to the question number) and mail the envelope to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper. The envelope containing the week's answers must be postmarked before 5 p. m. on Sunday.

Readers who send in their answers and who come out with a high rating entitling them to the rank of master, expert, or advanced player, will be sent a certificate signed by myself, testifying that they have attained the given rank in this 1940 examination. This, also, of course, will be entirely free of charge.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

"ALLIGATOR PEAR"

"Alligator pear" isn't a good name for the avocado, for the fruit isn't even distantly related to the pear. Its only similarity is in shape. Eatability depends primarily on a high oil content and maturity of the fruit. Test an avocado for ripeness by very gentle pressure between the palms. If it "gives" slightly, it is ready to eat.

Avocados are nutritious chiefly because of their oil which is similar in composition to olive oil, but the best of them contain a fair supply of minerals and vitamins, too. Since this is a non-starchy fruit, doctors frequently recommend it to diabetics. It's caloric value is high.

Many persons like avocados best "on the half shell." To serve one this way, cut lengthwise and remove the seed. Serve each half on lettuce with French dressing, mayonnaise, or lemon juice. If you use mayonnaise, add a little lemon juice to it, for the avocado needs a bit of sharpness to contrast its rather heavy flavor.

Sliced tomatoes and grapefruit or orange sections are favorite combinations for sliced avocado in salads. Pineapple is good with it, too. Shrimp, lobster, and crab meat are excellent seafood accompaniments. Seafood usually is served in the avocado halfshell, with lemon juice or a tart dressing.

Seafowl Half Shell 2 avocados 1 cup diced celery cup cocktail sauce 1 cup flaked crabmeat, lobster or shrimp. Cut fruit into halves lengthwise, remove seeds, and sprinkle cut portions with lemon juice and salt. Combine celery, crab meat, and cocktail sauce, blend lightly, and use to fill centers. Sprinkle tops with paprika. Serves 4.

Jellied Salad Mold 1 1/2 tablespoons granulated gelatin 1 cup cold water 2 cups tomato juice 2 bay leaves 5 whole cloves 1 cup chopped onion 1 teaspoon salt Few drops Tabasco sauce 1/2 cup diced celery 2 avocados Lettuce hearts. Moisten gelatin in cold water. Combine tomato juice, bay leaves, cloves, onion, salt and Tabasco sauce, bring to a boil and continue boiling 5 minutes, strain. Add moistened gelatin and stir until dissolved, cool. Dice one avocado, when gelatin begins to set, stir in the diced avocado and celery. Mold in a ring mold. To serve, fill center of unmolded ring with lettuce hearts and one sliced avocado. Serve with desired dressing. If individual molds are used, surround with small slices of avocado.

The Cocktail Supreme 3 cups avocado cubes or balls 1 cup tomato catsup 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 2 tablespoons lemon juice 1 tablespoon mayonnaise 1/2 teaspoon salt Dash Tabasco sauce Use 1/2 cup avocado cubes or balls for each cocktail. Combine catsup, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, mayonnaise, salt and Tabasco sauce. Blend and pour over fruit. Serve chilled. Serves 6.

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

In George Washington's day young couples married at 16 to 18 years of age. Current economic factors, however, have deferred their weddings till the age of 25 or even 30 years in the larger cities. It is high time we subsidized young couples and helped them establish happy homes, for the latter are the foundation of our democracy. Besides, property owners make the best citizens and most intelligent voters.

CASE R-180: Paul B., aged 23, is a graduate student at the university. "I notice a recent report that half of the 3,500,000 girls under 24 who are married, live with parents or in-laws," he began.

"Yet in psychology class, Dr. Crane, you frequently advise us not to live with our parents when we take unto ourselves a mate.

"I imagine the economic factor is the chief reason why these young wives had to live with their in-laws. How can society remedy that problem?"

DIAGNOSIS: First, misguided parents must stop being so overly solicitous about their newly married children.

It doesn't hurt a young couple to go without some of the parental luxuries for a few years. Many parents think it terrible if their children set up housekeeping in a two-room apartment or small farm cottage.

But it is far more fun to build up a home of one's own, even though small, than to share parental quarters. You can quickly appreciate this psychological point by remembering how a little girl reacts to two dolls.

She will often show far more love and affection for the poor old rag doll that she has helped sew together and care for, than she will for an expensive new China doll which is a birthday or Christmas gift.

We tend to value an object in proportion to the amount of work and sacrifice we have put into it. Thus, young couples will value their homes more if they are allowed to build them, and even sacrifice for a few years in the process.

A young husband wants to dominate the love and admiration of his bride. But if they are living with her parents, the girl unwittingly defers to her father, because it is habitual to do so. She will also take orders from mama for the same reason.

Everytime she defers to her parents, however, she psychologically wounds the vanity of her husband. Usually the girl doesn't even realize this fact till it is too late.

If the couple move in with his parents, moreover, she begins to feel the same hostility toward them, for he takes orders from his mama. Besides, the young wife is often contrasted disparagingly with the older woman in regard to cooking and household economy.

Many tactless in-laws help add to the conflict by deliberately pointing out the wastefulness of the young bride. The husband would usually not notice the scraps thrown out into the garbage can and her buying of expensive meats and vegetables if his parents didn't point out these facts.

I wish we could help subsidize happy homes, as we have long subsidized steamship and airplane companies, by grubstaking young couples to a tiny cottage and a plot of ground. Let the government take a mortgage on the invested capital, if need be, at very low interest rates.

In the old days, the government used to buy land, as in the Louisiana Purchase and then give it away, outright, to homesteaders who would settle upon it. Uncle Sam now owns millions of acres of farm land. We should realize that happy homes are the best guarantee of democracy. They are worth some governmental aid and subsidy. We need "horse sense" used in this plan so that it works efficiently. The taxpayers should always get their money's worth in the long run.

Good Taste Today by Emily Post

RELATIONSHIP IS UNUSUAL It would certainly be unusual to receive an announcement reading: Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Black have the honor of announcing the marriage of Mrs. Black's daughter Mary Jane Green to Mr. Black's son James Arthur etc.

In answer to "Mrs. Black" who sent me the suggestion, the last two lines should follow the conventional form:

Mr. James Arthur Black The fact that he is the son of the bride's stepfather can be told those who may not know, and it can also be announced in the newspapers.

A Present To One's Hostess Dear Mrs. Post: What can I take a man's mother who has invited me again this year to visit them? Last year I took her a box of candy, and I took her out to tea one afternoon. But I want to take something else this year.

Answer: Having stayed in her house, can't you think of something that would look well, or be useful in it? There is no reason why you can't take her anything you like—except wearing apparel!

The Meaning of "Complate" Dear Mrs. Post: Are the small-stemmed glasses used for fish and fruit cocktails and desserts called "complate"? I've always thought a complate was a larger covered dish.

Answer: Complates are correctly flat dishes either on a stem or on feet, and used for "decorative" sweets or fruits. I have been told that certain manufacturers are making small-stemmed glasses and are calling them individual complates. Instead of the cut-in-half orange-shaped glass known as a fruit cocktail glass, the name complate suggests an almost saucer width glass on a not too high stem and sounds very pretty—for dessert, but please not for fish.

A Questionable Situation Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper for a woman to go to a man's hotel room, or for him to go to hers, to have lunch or dinner? Neither of them can afford an apartment or a suite of rooms in the hotel, and yet they don't like to have to sit in public eating places to discuss their private affairs.

Answer: If she has a sitting room, he may properly lunch with her. Otherwise, either lunching with the other in a bedroom would not be permitted by the management of any hotel of high repute.

Good Parenthood Needed To Set Proper Examples

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Little apples fall close to the tree." The fate of the nation rests upon the quality of its children and that quality depends wholly upon the quality of the fathers and mothers of those children.

Quality of parenthood is a complex force that defies analysis as do all spiritual qualities. Physical health enters into it and is a great value in the total. Spiritual health is of equal value. The two combined make the sum of parental quality, but the two are so inter-related and so complex in their own composition that the mere naming of them is about as useful to our needs as a blank prescription is to a patient.

What are the characteristics of a good parent? Good health first. A father and mother have to be well poised, which means that they are calm in the face of the unexpected, patient under strain, understanding about making decisions that affect the present occasion and the future ones that surely follow in consequence. It is not possible to be calm, patient, tolerant, understanding, intelligent and forceful if one has a headache or a fretful stomach. Nor is age helpful in the circumstances. Youth and sound health are the bases for these essential qualities of good parenthood.

These qualities permit fathers and mothers to meet their children on their own levels of growth. Good parents know how to play with their children and how to teach them to play by themselves and with others. Play is the serious work of childhood and good parents understand how to guide it so that it merges into wholesome activities that lead to purposeful work. This is work that mature men and women can undertake with sureness but which the too young or the too old cannot expect to do with any degree of success.

Good character, the outgrowth of fine spiritual qualities, is essential to successful parenthood. Children learn most of what we teach them by imitation, and they imitate nobody more than they do their fathers and mothers. This imitation starts with actions. The way father gestures, catches and throws a ball, crosses his legs, raises his eyebrows, becomes his son's way. The way mother uses her hands, walks, dances, beats an egg or waves a green-tinged becomes her daughter's way.

Behave What We Are Actions create thoughts and habits of thought set habits of action, and each in turn strengthens the other in an ever-increasing complexity that becomes that most complex thing in life—personality. What we would have children be we must first become. What we would have them avoid we must in actuality avoid.

This implies discipline for parents as well as for children. If parents disciplined themselves more for the sake of the children they would have less discipline to administer to them. It is not possible to hide what we are from our children. They know it before we do. The best we can do is to behave like the people we would have our children be, and in the process we will, because we cannot help it, become good fathers and mothers for them. After all, a good parent is first and last a fine human being.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Sex Instruction," in which he tells parents how to approach and teach this all-important question. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of the Post-Crescent, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Beauty and You

The treatment of dandruff properly falls to the physician, but unfortunately little research has been done on dandruff by the medical profession. So naturally the so-called scalp specialists have been forced to offer corrective treatments to the best of their knowledge.

One theory advanced is that gentle handling of the hair is necessary when dandruff is present. To quote Henley on the subject, "Dandruff scales should be removed only when entirely detached from the scalp. These scales result from an irritation which is increased by forcible removal, and hence endeavor to clean the hair from their clinging or brushing it, in such a way as to scrape the scalp, available to be worse than useless."

Suggested Treatment: If ordinary tonics and weekly shampoos with tincture of green soap have not corrected a dandruff condition, more potent treatment is indicated.

Women who have dyed or tinted hair should strip the hair of all color before beginning a dandruff treatment for the lotions used are quite likely to change the artificial color to a startling hue!

Henley proceeds, in his article on dandruff, to suggest the use of a sulphur lotion made by placing a little sublimed sulphur in water, shaking well, and then allowing to settle. The head is washed in the clear liquid every morning.

"Sulphur is said to be insoluble in water," he states, "yet a sulphur water made as above indicated has long been in use as a hair wash. A little glycerine improves the preparation, preventing the hair from becoming harsh by repeated washings."

Begin Immediately If you are aware of a dandruff condition you should begin corrective treatment at once. Perhaps an able scalp specialist is in your city. If so your problem is simplified by putting your head in his hands if you can afford treatments. Otherwise you should intelligently care for your scalp at home.

Begin with having a physical examination to make certain that no ailment is robbing your scalp of sufficient nourishment, and then check on the scalp aids you have been using. Put them aside while you treat your scalp with the mentioned sulphur lotion and shampoo it with a Pine-Tar Shampoo which your druggist can mix for you.

Send me a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for this Pine-Tar Dandruff Shampoo formula which is printed with directions for your druggist to mix and for you to use. It is perfectly harmless and may be used on children's heads as well as on adults' in a corrective treatment.

Be sure that your combs and brushes are sterilized each day while you are treating your scalp. After washing them with soap warm water, rinse them in a solution of clear water and a germicide. Dry thoroughly in the sun afterward. Also clean your hat bands with a cleansing fluid at least twice a week and do not try on hats in a shop during the treatment. Although it has never been isolated, some physicians believe that dandruff is caused by a parasite which can be passed from one to another.

"Scientific Treatment for Dandruff" is a free leaflet giving formula for Pine-Tar Shampoo and Sulphur Lotion. Write for it in care of the Post-Crescent and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

YESTERDAY: Kay arranges to sleep with Felicia, then goes to her old room to pack for an early departure. Jeff is there, holding Sandra's shorthand notebook which was missing that morning. He says he is trying to find something Sandra wrote and put it in a safe place.

Chapter 38 The Vanishing Notebook "How did you get here?" I demanded.

"Walked out," he whispered back, grinning sardonically. "Sent the sentry for a tray and the darn fool left the door unlocked."

"Well, you're walking right back in," I told him grimly. "Of all the fool stunts! Climb out that bedroom window on the side and wait for me in Adams' car. Here's the key to the garage cell. And keep an eye out for the sentry along the back row."

He did not argue with me. Maybe he thought if I knew as much as Sandra I might be equally dangerous. At any rate, he departed in the window, and I had just started into the bedroom to latch the screen after him when Felicia came in.

"Anything I can do?" she asked. I pretended I was coming out of the bedroom instead of going in.

My Neighbor Says—

To prepare a new aluminum griddle for use, first wash well in warm water and soap suds and remove any labels. The griddle is hot enough on a gas range when a small piece of paper placed on top will brown. Lower the heat and start baking. For the electric stove, pre-heat the griddle four minutes then lower the heat and start baking. Cakes often stick if the griddle is too hot. Wash the griddle after it has been used in plenty of hot soapy water and wipe perfectly dry before storing.

"No. She doesn't know a stock from a bond."

"But did she ever tell you how it was invested, or how much income she has?"

He stopped, but not before bitterness had crept into his voice again. I hesitated for a moment, but something made me pursue the painful subject.

"Julia tells me your father left you a house in Memphis and your great-grandfather's farm in the Ozarks."

"The Memphis house is so heavily mortgaged even the bank won't take it over. And the Ozark property—maybe you don't know it, but I had up there isn't worth the paper the deed is written on. I pay the taxes on it for sentimental reasons. The old gentleman loved it, and Julia and I had fun there when we were kids. There's another nice little tract of Sandra's; she never even saw the place, but she was plenty core when she found out that I've willed it to Julia. You'd think she'd be satisfied."

Lawrence Says Congress Should Not End Session

Favors Recess but Says Adjournment Means 1-Man Rule

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Dictatorship in America begins next week-end. It may be benevolently intended, but technically it will be as complete as in any totalitarian state in the world.

For when congress adjourns, there is no constitutional way by which it can be called back into session of its own initiative. Only the president, under our constitution, can call an extra session. Twice this past summer since "total war" began in Europe, Mr. Roosevelt said there was no need for congress to be in Washington. He said this on June 4 and June 11. But the Republican party protested effectively and congress since that time has authorized billions for a complete reorganization and expansion of our defenses, and a peace-time conscription law has been passed. Mr. Roosevelt, too, has since said publicly that events are so grave that he has no time for political debate with his opponent and that he cannot go more than 12 hours' travel distance from Washington by rail.

The truth is Mr. Roosevelt regards congress as superfluous and unnecessary. He thinks he can take care of everything himself without congress. As for laws that may be needed to meet sudden emergencies, Mr. Roosevelt has already violated the laws of the United States in sending 50 over-age destroyers to England and has not even asked congress to ratify his action to make it legal. So it can hardly be expected that if anything else requiring legislation comes up, he will call congress back.

Extra Session
It has been said again and again that vast powers can be delegated to a president of the United States without fear of dictatorship because at any time congress can be called back and these powers revoked. But if public sentiment were critical of a president, and even if there were a unanimous desire on the part of members of congress themselves to come back into session, the chief executive, fearing a revocation of his powers, could actually keep congress from coming into session until the date of the opening of the next regular session, which in this case is January, 1941. Even the call for an extra session usually means giving notice of 10 days and, in times like these, when Mr. Roosevelt does not feel he can be away even 12 hours' distance by rail, it would seem that a delay of 10 days could be of critical importance to the safety of the nation.

Mr. Roosevelt is acclaimed as a man of great "experience," but he would have sent congress home this summer and would have delayed defense preparations had it not been for the vigorous protest of the Republican party in both houses of congress.

There is an alternate course available. It is, as the Republican leaders propose, that congress shall not formally adjourn, but go into 3-day recesses, subject to the call of the presiding officers of each house. But this displeases the administration because all pending legislation — including the Logan-Walter bill which is aimed at dictatorship by government bureaus and boards — would stay alive and subject to action at any time. An adjournment, on the other hand, kills at once all legislation on the calendar enacted by either the house or senate, or recommended by congressional committees since the present congress, elected in November, 1938, came into session in January, 1939.

Real Reason

This is the real reason for Mr. Roosevelt's persistent interest in forcing adjournment now. Also, there is the matter of recess appointments. He could not, for instance, fill certain vacancies like the chairmanship of the National Labor Relations board without running the gauntlet of senatorial confirmation if the senate were to remain in session. The moment adjournment comes he can make a lot of appointments, and get a number of officials grooved in key positions between now and January before congress meets again. And a lot of damage to the economic system can be done in three months nowadays by left-wing radicals in government posts. When congress is in session these are a bit restrained. With congress home, these left-wingers become reckless.

The whole face of world affairs, and America's whole outlook thereon, has been changed in less than three months. It's a long time to be without a legislative body which cannot be called into session except by one man.

The American people have a chance to avert even a 3-month dictatorship by telegraphing, writing or telephoning to their member of congress, urging them to take 3-day recesses instead of an adjournment. If the members refuse to pay heed to their constituents, the people can apply a remedy by electing a new congress on Nov. 5. For a vote for adjournment now is a vote for the principle of dictatorship, and a vote for congressional recesses is a vote to keep representative government functioning in America.

Even in the midst of bombs and war in Britain, even though the prime minister already has virtually complete power, Mr. Churchill has not asked parliament to adjourn.

America Facing Prospect Of Manipulated Trade World

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington — An American woman living in Berlin a few years ago inherited, through the death of her father, a small parcel of real estate in this country. In settling the estate she was informed that any property received by persons living in Germany, even though they were foreigners, was the property of the reich and that she should inform the German government of her inheritance.

Clapper

She protested but was advised that unless she reported it she would be subject to severe penalties, but that if she complied with the regulations, the German government undoubtedly would return her property as it could have no interest in doing otherwise.

The American woman filled out the papers surrendering her property in America to the German government. The government official then courteously told her that the reich was not interested in keeping her property and title was transferred back to her.

Only through such incidents does one begin to see the vast difference between the totalitarian economy and our own free economy. It is important that we begin to understand these differences because after the fighting stops, we will be confronted with the task of carrying on commercial relations probably with a Europe operating almost entirely under totalitarian methods. Certainly in foreign trade even a surviving Britain will be compelled to maintain government controls. Our most important customers will be operating under controlled systems. When farm products are wanted, foreign governments will buy them.

In the case of Germany certainly the prospect is that such deals will have to be barter or clearing deals. The German government, for instance, will offer to buy a billion dollars in farm products over a period of a year. But the products would be paid for in blocked marks. In other words we would have to take it out in trade, in purchase of such German manufactures as the German government wished to sell. In that kind of dealing with the German government, we probably would have to operate through a government corporation.

So there you have it. That is what our government people expect. It is what Herbert Hoover anticipated in his speech a few days ago at the University of Pennsylvania. Our government trading with foreign governments. Either that or no export business.

Can't Fence U. S. Off From Rest of World

Such operations are bound to affect our ways of doing business. We can't, as Hoover said, fence ourselves off and not do business with the whole continent of Europe because it operates under state controlled methods of trade. Neither can individual American business men, trading alone, operate in deals of that kind.

No one pretends to be able yet to visualize the situation in detail and with the British blockade cutting us off from all trade with Europe except to England the question still is in what Roosevelt would call the study stage. But it is not too early to begin realizing that changes are afoot.

Journal. If America is in such a serious situation that the third-term precedent has to be broken this year, then a congressional check on a would-be third-term president arises as the only safeguard against him. The events of the next week-end will tell a significant story of how much the American people really care about democracy.

Roosevelt to Name Appleton Draft Board

Four Persons Will Serve Without Pay; Review Each Case

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — A local draft board to administer the conscription law in Appleton will soon be appointed by President Roosevelt, upon the recommendation of Governor Heil, the joint army and navy selective service committee reports.

Not only will there be one local board to every 30,000 citizens in Wisconsin and the entire United States, but a board of appeals will also be selected for every 600,000 persons to attend to their grievances.

After all men in Appleton between the ages of 21 and 36 have registered on Oct. 16, it will be the task of the local board to review each individual case and determine who is subject to "selective military service."

Each local board is expected to be made up of four persons, but if the governor so desires, there may be more. Women, as well as men, are eligible for service on the boards. The federal selective service committee specifies only that members should be "respectable, public-spirited citizens—representing all interests in the section."

No members of local boards will receive compensation for their services, though each board is allowed one paid employee to attend to clerical work. Such members will probably meet in the evenings, it is said, for as many times a week as they deem necessary.

Should any citizen drafted for military service desire to contest a ruling, he may appear before the regional board of appeals for a decision as to whether or not his customary work is necessary to the defense program, or on any other basis. The regional board of appeals has however, the final word except in a case of dependency. If in the face of contrary decisions by the local board and board of appeals, a citizen maintains certain persons are dependent upon him for livelihood, he has no appeal except to the President of the United States.

6 Cases of Contagion Reported in County

Six cases of contagion were reported in Oshkosh county during the week ended Sept. 13, according to information received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, from the state board of health. Appleton reported a case of measles, two of poliomyelitis and one of whooping cough. Kaukauna reported a case of measles and the town of Buchanan a case of poliomyelitis.

you sure that property is worthless?"

"No doubt about it—nothing but rocks and hills. Why?"

"But is there anything Sandra might have got hold of that you didn't know—a railroad, or some project like Boulder Dam, or oil— Oh, I don't know anything about real estate, but mightn't there be some reason for Sandra to think it was valuable?"

"You don't dam a brook," he said. He sounded grimly amused. "Neither do you build railroads where there's no place to go. And there's no oil in those parts that I ever heard of. But as far as Sandra is concerned, maybe you've got something. That girl was the most credulous fool I've ever encountered. She could believe anything."

His voice trailed off.

"And if Sandra had ever heard that story she would have believed it?" I asked tensely.

"She might, I suppose. Even Father liked to toy with the idea, though he knew better. He always said he'd go back when he was retired and spend a little money proving to his own satisfaction that there was nothing there. Maybe he talked to Sandra at the last— maybe he got to believing it himself. Anyway, she and I quarreled about it when we were first engaged, and almost as soon as she got here last week she was at me again to change my will. I didn't think even she would be that cheap."

"Did you change it?"

"No. Why should I? Julia has never known anything about it, but I intend her to have the place if anything happens to me. Then, when Sandra practically accused me of killing Ivan, I told her that finished things, as far as I was concerned. I'd married her, but I didn't propose to pay any more for her silence. She ran to you to make it appear, I suppose, that the breach was of her making. And it was part of her spite to go to the reception with a black eye. Kar, I swear I did not even know she had it until right there on the front walk when she took off that scarf thing she was wearing."

"Just Bluffing"

"She was shut in the bedroom with a headache when I came home at noon, and after duty she was still in there. She had laid my things out in the sitting room, so after dinner I dressed in there and got out. I never had a good look at her or I wouldn't have let her go a step."

"I felt like blacking the other eye when I got her home. That was when she told me it wouldn't do me any good to kill her. After she went off to your room I looked through everything she had, because I thought if she was leaving anything written down in those rooms that nosey hostess or one of the orderlies would be into it. But I didn't find anything. That's why I thought about the shorthand notebook. Only I can't read shorthand, so I wasn't any better off when I found it. Can you? Do you know what was in it?"

"Just some dictation I gave her. That's all, as far as I know. I can read it fairly well, if it's Gregg. But I haven't looked at it. I'll see when I get back. But I think she was just bluffing, don't you?"

"God knows. It doesn't pay to take chances with people like her."

The prison ward was on the ground floor of the west wing. At Jeff's suggestion, I parked by the side entrance, got out and went in.

The sentry was sitting in front of the door to the ward, his face as white as chalk. He jumped a foot when I hissed at him and came at me with his hand on the butt of his automatic.

"You haven't reported Lieutenant Tack missing?" I whispered, and I thought the man was going to faint.

"It's all right, sentry, he's out in the car. We were hoping he could get back without anyone knowing."

The enlisted man took his hand off the gun and brought out a handkerchief with which to mop his brow. He became suddenly garrulous, in a strained whisper.

"Listen, I just missed him, see? I come back with that tray, and the room was dark, and he had rolled a blanket up on the bed, so I got to thinking about me leaving that door unlocked, and about two minutes ago I reaches in and turns on the light. Lady, I'm in the lieutenant's troop. I was going to wait to report it until I seen the Officer of the Guard comin' down the hall. He's due any time now. Lady, I sure am glad you brung him back."

I saw Jeff safely behind that door, locked this time, then I drove back to the club. It must be nearly ten o'clock, and I still had my packing to do, and that shorthand notebook to inspect.

The rejected manuscript was on the seat beside me. I had found myself still treasuring its hampering shape when I followed Jeff out to the garage. I had clung to it, unconsciously, as I had to my pocketbook, while all the time my mind was on other things.

I put the car in the garage, collected manuscript and pocketbook, locked the garage, and went back to my rooms. It did not occur to me to be frightened a second time. My mind was on the shorthand notebook. I was thinking ironically that I had practically pledged myself to keep a secret that I had broadcast a couple of hours ago.

But when I turned on the light and went to look for it, the shorthand notebook was gone.

'Y' Divisions to Meet This Week

With Division A leading off at its meeting last night in the Appleton Y. M. C. A., the remaining units for the association's fall campaign Sept. 30 to Oct. 7 will assemble this week to make preparations for the drive.

Louis Waltman, Jr., and Cecil Furminger are co-majors of the division which met last evening. Division C, headed by Leo Murphy and Clark Teel, will meet Wednesday night. George Werner and the Rev. G. H. Blum are co-majors of Division D, which convenes Thursday night. H. E. Brown and Kenneth Benson head Division B, scheduled to meet Friday night. The girls division, of which Genevieve Kronschnabel and Margaret Doepker are co-majors, will also convene Friday night.

The land occupied by the public roads of the United States is equal to the area of the whole state of Indiana.

Grand Chute Fights Fires at State's Lowest Operating Cost

(This is one of a number of articles describing the fire fighting equipment and personnel in the towns, villages and cities of this area. They are designed to acquaint readers with the types of fire fighting apparatus and systems in use in this area. Another article will appear in the near future.)

A fire department for which is claimed the lowest operating costs in this part of the state is that of Grand Chute.

Organized three years ago when a group of volunteer firemen persuaded the town board to buy a truck, the unit was self-sustaining the first two years, compensation from insurance companies keeping it out of the red.

Seven drivers are available in case of fire, with the truck housed at Van Dyke Coal company yards in the town of Grand Chute. The town is divided into five sections, each with a district superintendent. Fire alarms are telephoned to the coal company, which notifies the superintendent in whose district the fire is to get his volunteers together.

The truck itself carries 750 gallons of water, with a pump capable of 350 gallons per minute. The truck carrying in addition 1,000 feet of hose and chemical equipment.

The practice at fires is for farmers to haul water which is poured into the tank. To date the department has answered 64 calls. It's most trying time in September of 1939, when barns owned by Gust Schroeder and Henry Roehl caught fire at the same time. Both were destroyed.

Each year the volunteers elect a chief, with Carl Ebert the present head.

County Council of Legion Auxiliary to Meet This Evening

Kimberly—The county council of the American Legion auxiliary will meet at the clubhouse Tuesday evening. A 6:30 dinner will precede the business session, after which the Kimberly quartet John Maubie, Ambrose Couillard, Jack Coates and Paul Rooyackers, will offer a number of selections. Lila Mae First, state winner in an essay contest sponsored by the auxiliary, will read her winning essay "What I Owe America and What America Gives to Me."

A high mass with the exposition of the blessed sacrament, will be offered at Holy Name church as churches throughout the Green Bay diocese, in honor of the Bishop Paul P. Rhode's twenty-fifth anniversary in this diocese. Bishop Rhode came to Green Bay Sept. 29, 1915.

Special envelopes were given out at all churches in the diocese Sunday for an offering for the bishop, which will be presented to him at a silver jubilee dinner Sunday, Oct. 8, at the Community club Green Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brum and daughters, Marnie and Charlotte and Evelyn, and Roman Van Thiel, spent the weekend with relatives at Milwaukee and Chicago.

The first fall meeting of the Holy Name Study club will be held at the school at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

Congregation Plans Its Annual Dinner

Kaukauna Will Meet Menasha Team Saturday

Champions Expect Hard Battle With Jays in Second League Game

Kaukauna—On the strength of their 25 to 0 victory over West De Pere Saturday Coach Paul E. Little only gave his charges a light session yesterday, but today heavy work begins in preparation for entertaining the Menasha Bluejays Saturday at home.

The Jays annually give Kaukauna one of its hardest games. De Pere's eleven did not quite measure up to expectations last week, its weak line making the Kaws appear better than they were. The Menasha eleven showed strength in its opener against Two Rivers, and with many veterans returning is out to upset the Kaukauna champions.

Team of Veterans
Roland O'Brien and Donald Drucks are two backfield men who return to plague the Kaws again. No less than nine of the probably eleven starters for Menasha are seniors.

Saturday's game showed the Kaws with an offense which nothing in the conference is likely to equal. With Karl Giordana, Bob Danner and Willis Riquette to run, the locals unveiled also a passing attack which will not allow the enemy to concentrate on stopping a running game.

After this week's contest the Kaws will journey to Neenah for their third conference game. Then comes homecoming and Shawano.

Paper Mill, Legion Will Sponsor Movie

Kaukauna—In cooperation with Thimnany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna Legionnaires are sponsoring the movie "Our Town," at Rialto theater Sept. 25 and 26 and Oct. 1, 2 and 3. The picture deals with community activities, and shows the result when such are allowed to enter a community.

The Thimnany Pulp and Paper company is distributing free tickets to the show, as is also the American Legion. Tickets may be secured from L. C. Smith, Thimnany personnel director, and Stanley Lizon, American Legion commander.

Labor Sought For Paving Job

WPA Is Asked for More Men to Help Island Street Crew

Kaukauna—Three members of the board of public works Aldermen Oscar Alger and Otto M. Ludtke and Lester J. Brenzel city clerk, have conferred with Frank J. Dowell, WPA administrator at Green Bay, in regard to securing WPA help for the Island street paving project.

Dowell said no help is possible before the middle of October, and that no aid could be promised at that time.

At the last council session Alger said the board hoped to complete as much of the job this fall as was possible but that it was necessary to get WPA help to supplement the relief labor. At its August 20 session the council approved the paving job.

Chaffin Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

Before going one single letter further with this typewriter we are announcing that hereafter and henceforth we'll believe no one who tells us of the strength of football teams and we'll go on our own as far as guessing winners goes.

Almost everyone did us dirt Friday night and Saturday. Menasha was supposed to be good and lost; Kimberly wasn't supposed to be good and it won; Appleton had a good running back and didn't use him enough; Manitowoc was so weak Harry Chandler almost cried and Oshkosh was awarded the valley title yet Manitowoc showed all kinds of power and Oshkosh showed only Luker; the Packers tried to play the Bears on their reputation and you know what happened there.

But while we guessed a lot of 'em wrong, and that guy from Kimberly called us by telephone the first thing Saturday evening, we weren't like Dick Davis at the next desk. Dick bet a nickel or was it 25 cents on the Packers and of course he lost. He's awfully gullible.

Speaking of the Packers, that's what everyone was doing yesterday. The theme song was how the Bays could take such a shellacking and whether the Bears were really as good as they indicated.

Last week sometime, George Strickler, who writes for the Chicago Tribune sports department, had an article to the effect that the Packers were taking the Bear game as a matter of fact, that they weren't keying for the game. And that probably is the answer.

The Packers went into the game with a string of ten or eleven victories to their credit. They had cleaned up last season, mauled the N. Y. Giants in the playoff, beaten the league all-stars and then this year had downed the college all-stars, the Washington Redskins and had gone along as they pleased.

A football team stands that kind of success just so long and then goes bad. And of course, there's no better team to go bad against than the Bears.

If you'll admit the Packers entered the game far from keyed, then take the incidents that happened after the opening whistle and which further enhanced their opinions of themselves.

The Packers received the kickoff and, using line players, walked up the field 30 yards or so with the Bear line offering little resistance. Then the opposition stiffened a trifle and the Packers attempted a pass and the Bears intercepted. But that didn't mean anything.

The Bears immediately attempted their new spread formation and tried three passes in a row which the Packers knocked down or which were incomplete. All in all, it looked like a setup. The Bears couldn't gain, the Packers had picked up three first downs and it would be a big afternoon.

On fourth down the Bears prepared to punt with McAfee doing the booting. It was orthodox football and naturally the Packers prepared to fall back and protect their safety. Then occurred the play that started to turn the ball game into a Packer rout and a Bear victory.

McAfee didn't punt as almost every team would do under the circumstances. Instead, as he got the ball for the kick, he saw the Packers dropping back and the chance for a fair run. It was an opportunity, too, for when the shocked Packers finally brought him down he was on the 14-yard line. The Bears failed to score on the play, a placekick going wide of the uprights, but it gave them a mighty lot of confidence because they realized they had a great open field runner in McAfee.

It still appeared the Packers had the situation in hand for they took the ball after the try for the goal and marched to a point where they scored three points on Engebretsen's placement.

But what a kick in the ribs they got when they booted the kickoff to McAfee and he raced down the center a few yards, cut to the north sidelines and galloped to a touchdown that put the Bears in the lead!

Even that didn't seem to arouse the Packers but it certainly sent the Bear hopes soaring and from that moment on they were an aggressive, tearing football team making their own breaks and tougher than Chicago's near north side.

The Packers, on the other hand, finished the half in so-so style. Hadn't they come from behind in the second half last year and beaten the Bears?

But perhaps the Bears remembered that, too, for on the first kickoff, Nolting took the ball on the Bear 2 yard line and raced for a touchdown that gave the Bears a 21 to 3 lead. The Packers had been rather apathetic in their efforts during the first half but they were terrible during that run and appeared to have forgotten they were back on the field.

There isn't much to be said about the remainder of the game. The Packers snapped out of things to score in the third period but most of the time they were wandering around living examples of 'you can't do that to us.'

What of the future? The Packers will bound back without a doubt. No team, least of all defending champions, could look as bad as the Packers did Sunday. They wouldn't be in the league.

And good Green Bay followers remind you that in 1936 the Bays lost to the Bears, 31 to 3, and didn't lose another game all season. Football is like that.

Here's the list of football games for this weekend for you guessers. We'll have the winners of last week's contest in this column tomorrow.

Two Teams Undefeated In Amateur Series

Battle Creek, Mich. —(P)—Birmingham, Ala., and Battle Creek remained the only undefeated teams today in the fourth round of the amateur world series of the American Baseball Congress.

Each has won three games. Battle Creek yesterday shut out Grant Town, W. Va., 10 to 0, while Birmingham defeated Charlotte, U. C., 12 to 1.

In the games today South Bend, Ind., faces Chicago and Charlotte Blackshear, 181, Monterey, Calif., plays Grant Town, Wednesday Battle Creek and Birmingham meet in the feature tilt and Detroit plays Holyoke, Mass.

Four more teams suffered their second defeats and were eliminated in yesterday's games. Detroit dropped Jefferson City, Mo., 4 to 3; South Bend eliminated Ashland, Ky., 7 to 4; Holyoke defeated Aberdeen, S. D., 10 to 4, and Chicago downed Bancroft, Ia., 5 to 1.

San Francisco — Buddy Knox, 185, Dayton, O., outpointed Harold Blackshear, 181, Monterey, Calif., (10).

Don Looney of Eagles Leads Football Scorers

Counts Four Times in Two Games on Passes From Davey O'Brien

Chicago—(P)—Don Looney, former Texas Christian and with the Philadelphia Eagles, leads the scoring parade in the National Football league.

Looney, teammate of Davey O'Brien in college as well as now, nabbed two passes for touchdowns against Green Bay Sept. 15 and added two more on passes against Cleveland Sunday. This gave him a total of 24 points.

The leaders:

Players-Pos-Team	TD	PAT	FG	TP
Looney, E. Phil.	4	0	0	24
Drake, B. Cleve	3	0	0	18
Mullenaux, E. G. Bay	2	0	0	12
Todd, B. Wash	2	0	0	12
McAfee, E. Bears	2	0	0	12
Kavanaugh, E. Bears	2	0	0	12
Hulston, E. G. Bay	1	3	0	9
Niccolai, T. Pitt.	0	3	2	9

The air-minded pros are off to a good start toward bettering their record-shattering passing and scoring achievements of last year, statistics of the first nine games reveal.

The passing efficiency is one percent ahead of the first two weeks of last season, and the scoring is two points a game higher.

A total of 339 passes have been thrown in the nine games, with 143 completions for an efficiency rating of 42 per cent. A total of 252 points have been scored, an average of 28 a game.

The Washington Redskins have been the most proficient in the aerial game. With Sammy Baugh and Frank Filchook doing the chucking the Redskins have a record of 23 completions in 39 tosses for a 59 per cent efficiency mark.

The Chicago Bears with 41 points in one game, head the scoring parade, but the Green Bay Packers have the best ground-gaining record with an average of 287 yards in two games.

Passing Is Stressed By Coach Stuhldreher

Madison—(P)—Passing was stressed in the University of Wisconsin football camp yesterday at Coach Harry Stuhldreher switched from defensive to offensive drill.

Stuhldreher indicated he was well satisfied with the blocking and tackling performance in last Saturday's scrimmage and that emphasis for a time would be on potential scoring plays.

Grocers League Will Open Season Thursday

Grocers league keglers will pry the lid off their season at 7 o'clock Thursday night at Elks alleys. There are 40 teams in the circuit. Quality Biscuits are the defending champs.

Scribe Suggests Uniform Wage Scale in Southeastern Circuit

Gopher Leaders Believers in Personal Touch

Wrote Letters Asking Veterans to Report Raring for Opener

BY TOM SILER
Chicago —(P)—Minnesota's co-captains Bob Bjorklund and Bill Johnson are great believers in the personal touch.

Unlike many senior stars they take their football seriously and expect other members of the Gopher eleven to do the same.

The two leaders, wishing to obtain the cooperation of the veterans, wrote personal letters to all the seasoned boys, asking them to report in shape and rarin' to go when practice began. And almost all of them did.

One reason for their anxiety over a fast start was the impending collision with Washington Saturday at Minneapolis. Jimmy Phelan's Huskies are rated far and wide as the equal of Southern California this season among west coast machines.

If the Gophers have the stuff to whip Washington they undoubtedly will be upped in the rankings as a possible Western conference champion.

Tom Farmer is getting a thorough tryout at left half for Iowa because of his passing ability. . . . Coach Eddie Anderson says the Hawkeyes possibly will be stronger at all posts except at left half and at the ends. . . . Michigan goes through two practice sessions today and one tomorrow before leaving for its west coast game with California.

Four Wolverines may not make the trip because of injuries. . . . Ohio State, like Michigan and many others, is plagued by minor injuries. . . . Jim Strausbaugh, Buckeye back, is out of the opener against Pittsburgh with a leg injury.

Paul Bronson, sophomore back at Wisconsin, suffered a broken collarbone in Saturday's scrimmage. . . . Mal Elward turned his attention at Purdue toward more cohesion in the running and passing game in preparation for Saturday's opener with Butler. . . . Tuffy Brooks and Eddie Herbert, backs and guard Gene White joined the cripples at Indiana. . . . All are out with leg injuries. . . . ## Jack Mueller Bangs 242 as K. C.'s Begin Pin Season

Little Chute Gridders Schedule All-Stars For Sunday Afternoon

Pitz and Treiber collected team honors with a 926 game and 2,442 series.

Bobbie Bieseman cracked a 227 game and Hobbins grooved 203 for the only other high games of the evening. Two teams went into a tie for first place with 3-game victories. Wisconsin Telephone company took the measure of Schaefer Dairy and Sumnitch Grocers swept their match with Zoric Cleaners.

State Fighters Lose Decisions in Chicago

Don Goldberg, 171, of Milwaukee was awarded a decision over Bob Fertig, 176, of Chicago, at the end of the third round when the ringside physician ruled Fertig could not continue because of a cut over his left eye.

In other bouts Frank Greene, 182, of Chicago outpointed Mickey Hayes, 194, of Milwaukee, in four rounds; and Babe Thomson, 148, of Superior, Wis., lost to Sammy Secret, 150, of Pittsburgh in four rounds.

Jimmy Tigh, 136, of Philadelphia scored a 10-round decision over Edna Lander, 132, of Chicago, in the main event.

Comiskey Will Let Maxie Show

Detroit Fighter to Allow Baer to Clown, Then He'll Stop Him

Jersey City, N. J. —(P)—If madcap Maxie Baer obliges with his usual gags and patter, Patrick Edward Comiskey, the big kid with the over-hanging jaw, has it all figured out how he's going to give the folks two shows for the price of one in their fight Thursday night.

Fat explained today as he put the finishing touches on his heavy work. "First I'm going to let Maxie go all through his clowning and his gags and comedy for a couple of rounds. Then, when he's all done, we'll start fighting."

"This may delay my putting him to sleep for a while, but the ladies and gentlemen won't have too long to wait. They'll enjoy Maxie's playboy stuff. Then I'll flatten him for their entertainment and we'll all go home roughly. I guess I'll knock him out in five or six rounds."

Despite the big edge in experience Maxie will have, the Paterson Irish lad has it all planned how he'll have a few more fights over the winter and then knock Joe Louis' ears down some time next winter.

Passeau Allows 4 Hits And Blanks Cardinals

American League Scramble Halted By an Open Date

By The Associated Press
National league clubs held the baseball spotlight yesterday as the punier circuit marked time before continuing its mad pennant scramble.

Claude Passeau, veteran Cub right-hander, led his Chicago teammates to a four-hit 10-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Wrigley field.

It was Passeau's fourth shutout and 20th triumph of the season. He hurled hitless ball for five innings. Not a runner reached third base.

A walk, Rabbit Warbler's double, Bill Nicholson's single and Glen Russell's homer added four more runs before the inning ended.

The Cubs put across four more in the sixth on two more bases on balls, a single and outfield fly, and Bill Nicholson's home run, the fourth circuit blow of the game.

Dodgers Nose Out Giants
In the other National league games, Pittsburgh ousted Cincinnati 12-9, Brooklyn nosed out New York 3-2, and Boston divided a double header with Philadelphia.

Boston lost the first game 6-2 but won the second 8-0.

The American league, which is trying to find the longest way to the right answer, will get down to business again today with some games that mean nothing and yet mean everything.

Baseball's hottest pennant scramble in years was interrupted yesterday by an open date in the schedule and will meet a similar fate Thursday. In the meantime the Detroit Tigers have two tussles on tap with the Chicago White Sox and the Cleveland Indians must meet the St. Louis Browns twice.

No matter how any of these games comes out, the championship can't be decided before Detroit and Cleveland resume their fierce fight at Cleveland Friday. But they can make victory and defeat possible in that one game Friday or they can postpone it.

And all the time the struggling New York Yankees will be holding onto that slender mathematical life line hoping for a chance to squeeze through with at least a tie. They have eight games left to play with Washington and Philadelphia, and had better win them all, or at least seven out of eight, if they want to be around this weekend when the winner is determined.

Beggs Is Stopped
In defeating Cincinnati, which has won the National league title, Pittsburgh broke the nine-game winning string of relief pitcher Joe Beggs. The usually light-hitting Reds made 17 safeties, three more than the Pirates and including a two-run homer by Bill Myers. Pep Young led the Pittsburgh barrage with a triple, double, two singles, one of them with the bases loaded.

Some of the day's best baseball came in the Boston-Phillies twin "bill. Rookie Johnny Podgajny got his first major league victory 6-2 with six-hit pitching in the first game. Manuel Salvo allowed only nine, two of them home runs by Catcher Ben Warren of the Phils. In the nightcap Tom Earley of the Reds pitched three-hit shutout ball to best Hugh Mulcahy 8-0.

A ninth-inning home run by Delphi Camilli gave Brooklyn a 3-2 triumph over New York. Tex Carleton got credit for the victory by pitching two-thirds of an inning, and earned it. He stopped a Giant threat in the ninth with an unassisted double play while the bases were loaded, catching a pop fly and racing to first.

Columbus, O. — Jack (Buddy) Walker, 190, Columbus, knocked out Chuck Crowell, 219, Los Angeles, (6).

Tilt Features Dedication of S.S.A.C. Lights

Bugle, Drum Corps To Perform; College Coaches Will Speak

A game between the S.S.A.C. Blue Eagles and St. Mary gridders will feature dedication of the McKinley school playground lights at 7:30 Wednesday evening. Talks and an exhibition by the Sons of the American Legion Bugle and Drum corps are included on the program.

Final adjustments of the lights installed by the South Side Athletic club recently, will be made this evening under the supervision of Louis Luebke, city electrician. The senior grid team, the Blue Eagles, will practice tonight and Coach Ralph Barrell says its the last chance for candidates to re-appear. After tonight, no new men will be added to the team roster. Signal drill and defense fundamentals are on tap for the workout at 7:30 this evening. The Eagles will meet the Sheboygan Redskins here Oct. 6.

At a meeting of the athletic club last night, George Stein was named chairman of a committee of five to care for the lighting system and establish rental rates. Fred Krause, chairman of the membership drive committee, reported plans have been completed for the fall campaign. Persons living outside the Twelfth or Thirteenth wards are eligible for honorary memberships.

Following the bugle and drum performance, Carl Radtke will open the dedication program with a short talk. Coach Barrell will present the starting S.S.A.C. Blue Eagles and the game will get underway. During the halftime intermission, Marie Root, girls athletic director, will be introduced. Barrell will give a short talk on the development of the club, the crowd will sing "God Bless America," Coach Bernie Hesolton of Lawrence college will contribute remarks and A. C. Denney, Lawrence athletic director, will give the main talk. The second half of the game will conclude the evening's festivities.

The S.S.A.C. started 10 months ago, has spent $728.24 in athletic equipment, lights and other items. The funds were raised through special dances, the Telulah park dedication and $1 membership fees. There now are 160 active members.

Ripon, Coe In Feature Midwest Tilt

Vikings Will Play Under Lights First Time at Grinnell

LAST WEEK'S SCORES

Coe 18, Monmouth 14.

St. Ambrose 14, Cornell 0.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Simpson at Knox.

Culver Stockton at Cornell.

The Midwest conference football race gets underway in earnest this week with all teams actively engaged except co-champions Knox, Carleton, and Cornell. Each of the latter will be busy with non-league contests, however.

Coe and Monmouth, who got off to a running start by opening the conference season a week early, will travel into Wisconsin to meet Ripon and Beloit, respectively. Lawrence will travel 350 miles to make their debut under lights at Grinnell. It will mark the first time that Lawrence has ever played under lights and also the first time that they have met Grinnell. Coe's game at Ripon will also inaugurate football relations between those two colleges, although they both have been members of the conference for 18 years.

Feature Battle

This battle between the Redmen of Ripon and the Kojawks takes top interest for the week inasmuch as Coe technically leads the present race by virtue of their 18 to 6 victory over undermanned Monmouth, and Ripon are co-champions and favorites to repeat. Coe looked impressive in the opener. They made many costly fumbles but their shuffled lineup was effective especially on defense. Cornell paid dearly for stopping the St. Ambrose winning streak a year ago as the latter passed their way to a two touchdown victory over the Purple, 14 to 0 in a non-conference game.

Monmouth, whose belated pass attack was good for a touchdown in the closing minutes of the Coe game, will open Beloit's season under the lights at Hancock field. The Gold has made no claims to how powerful they are but have guaranteed all opponents that they are out to win. Theirs will be a new team. Carleton goes to North Dakota State for a night affair; and Cornell and Knox entertain Culver Stockton and Simpson in non-conference games.

GIANTS LOSE KICKER
New York — Len Barnum, long distance kicker from West Virginia Wesleyan, will be lost to the New York pro football Giants for at least three weeks. He suffered a fractured rib in Sunday's game with Washington. Eddie Miller, 165-pound passer, is in the hospital with a slight concussion.

Oshkosh Girls Win Fox Valley League Title

Appleton Team Beats Fond du Lac but Bows In 2nd Game, 17 to 3

Oshkosh—The Olson Transportation, Oshkosh girls softball team, is the champion of the Fox River Valley Girls Softball league by virtue of defeating the Appleton Girls team 17 to 3 at Menominee park Sunday afternoon in a game that gave the locals the first half championship and the league title at the same time.

Two games were played before a large crowd on an almost ideal day for the sport although at the tail-end of the season. In the first game the Appleton Girls eliminated the Fond du Lac team from further consideration in the league race by an 11 to 0 victory. Fond du Lac had tied in the first half but bowed out with records of three wins and one loss while the locals had four wins and one defeat. The two teams had met twice before, but both games were thrown out on protests and ordered replayed with the result they got together Sunday with the winner getting a chance to meet Oshkosh. Had Appleton beaten Oshkosh and gained the first half title a series of games would have been necessary for the league title as Oshkosh had previously won the second half crown.

Play Good Game

In the championship game the Oshkosh girls played a championship brand of softball and made some fine catches and did some good hitting. Lois Battenman caught a good game behind the log and some catches by Marion Ellis in left field prevented what might have been Appleton hits for extra bases and even home runs.

Elizabeth Schroeder got the Oshkosh team's longest hit, a triple with two mates on board ahead of her. Salm hit a three-bagger for Appleton. Maddy Horn, pitching for Oshkosh, had three strikeouts. Kasten had three strikeouts for Appleton and walked two. She was relieved by Salm in the fourth inning after Oshkosh had made eight runs in the third.

Oshkosh 008 063 x—12 13 3

Kasten, Salm and Melcher; Horn and Battenman.
In the Appleton-Fond du Lac game, Brov and Woonshin pitched for Fond du Lac with Beaster, catching while the Appleton battery was Kasten and Melcher. Appleton had 11 runs, eight hits and committed four errors. Fond du Lac had five runs, five hits and six errors.

HOME WORK FOR FIELD DOGS

By Buell Patterson

Any expert at any line does a certain amount of home work, if he is to be a success. It follows that if a dog must do work outside of the house, he must be trained to do that which he does at field to gain something approximating perfection.

If a dog is trained at home in sessions in the backyard so that he obeys all commands immediately they are given by his trainer, the dog will follow out this practice by obeying commands quickly when he is out working afield. Obedience will be second nature with him and be the rule rather than the rare exception.

If a dog is taught to fetch in the back yard, he has gone a long way toward learning the fine art of retrieving. If he comes when called he will not be very likely to break when he is supposed to hold his position at the command of "up" in a winning trial when results and form count so very much.

If a dog learns through his daily exercises around his home to follow when his master wants him to follow and to go ahead when that is desired he will be more than certain to follow or go ahead when out hunting. He will work out a closer relationship and have a far better understanding of his master's desires and reactions if trained by the home work method than if he is limited in his training only to those days when his master can take him out into the country for a workout.

A master who understands his dog through close companionship at home has a dog which is also understanding. Such a dog and such a master make an ideal team when it comes to going afield. The slightest gesture of the master or handler has deep significance for a "home work" dog. He senses things that another dog would never get.

A form of mental telepathy exists between a dog trained at home and his master for which there is no adequate substitute. Further, it is easy

Green Bay East at Sheb. Central.

SATURDAY'S GAME

Sheboygan North at Appleton.

Last season's three title holders, Green Bay East, Green Bay West and Manitowoc, cleared their first hurdles on the 1940 schedule of the Fox River Valley conference.

Three more games are scheduled for this weekend, one of them being Sheboygan Central's first conference game. Fond du Lac will not have its opening Valley encounter until Oct. 4, when it is host to West.

West will have a test from Oshkosh at Green Bay Friday night, and it is a game that may have something to do with the final standings since Oshkosh was rated high before the season started.

Manitowoc is idle this week, but East, the other co-champion, goes to Sheboygan Central on Friday. Saturday's game, Sheboygan North at Appleton, is the other tilt scheduled. Both should be hard-fought affairs.

So far, no one team appears to have any claim to the title. West's 26 to 6 margin was the most impressive of last week's results, but North lacked the experience that some of the other teams have.

Women Golfers Start Match Play

Del Monte, Calif. — (P) — The big show of women's golf, the national, swings into match play today with a star-laden array battling over one of the toughest tests of golf in the world — the famed Pebble Beach course sprawling along Monterey bay.

Sixty-four top-ranking contenders for the women's championship stroked safely through the qualifying round yesterday, but at the end of the day after 160 or so scores had been posted, par for Pebble Beach remained undisturbed.

The medalist, Dorothy Traung of San Francisco, could do no better than 78, two over par, while two others, Elizabeth Hicks of Pasadena, Calif., and Mrs. Frank Russ of Alameda, Calif., were one stroke behind.

Betty Jameson of San Antonio, eased in with an 84 and set out today to defend the championship she won last year at Noroton, Conn. She remains as solid a threat as any in the field.

Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, Minn., played Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., in a featured match of the first round today.

Mary Wall of Menominee, Mich., had a 44-46-90 in the qualifying round. She was matched in the first round against Louise Weyl of Los Angeles.

Derringer, Not Too Old To Learn, Has New Misery For Batters Now

BY JOHN FREY

Cincinnati — (P) — Paul Derringer, the big Kentuckian and real estate magnate of Sarasota, Fla., is a living contradiction of the old saw about old dogs and new tricks.

Not that Oom Paul is an old dog, but he's been around baseball and the Cincinnati Reds long enough to have a right to be a little set in his ways if he likes. Paul built up his pitching reputation on two things, control and a handsome assortment of curves. Then, after his greatest season, 25 victories and 7 losses, he set about to learn the new trick—a knuckle ball. That delivery is hard to master. Many a sage pitcher has refused to monkey with it because he knew he'd never know where it was going.

Auspicious Debut
Paul worked quietly. None of the fans and few of his team mates knew he was experimenting. Then, about mid-season this year, he gave it a formal coming out party and came within the length of Stan Hack's bat handle of the pitchers' hall of fame.

It was July 6 up in Chicago. The Cubs had an idea that they weren't getting anywhere but not until Stan got a little blooper off the handle in about the eighth inning did they realize they were otherwise hitless. The final score was Cincinnati 4, Chicago 0.

The knuckler has affected Paul's control a bit. He now walks as many as three men a game, where last year he once went almost 50 innings without giving a free trip.

Still something of an experimenter, the knuckler may have cost him some of the dozen games he lost up to mid-September. On the other hand, it helped him to 20 victories in that time and who's complaining?

Doubly Unorthodox
The average knuckler doesn't have much push behind it and seems to wobble. But Paul's comes up fast. There's no spin on it and it wobbles. The batter thinks it's slow and when he's ready to swing, in a snappy station wagon and Ernie Lombardi is already tossing the ball back to Paul. Off the field the big, curly-headed Derringer is one of Cincinnati's best dressed men. He drives away from the clubhouse in a snappy station wagon and looks like a prosperous young banker.

Paul's a new father. A daughter was born late in the season, just before he went out and lost a night game. Pure coincidence, he'll assure you.

Barring Injuries Navy Will Shape Up as Well as Last Year

BY DAVE NOPPER

Annapolis, Ind. — (P) — Major Emery E. (Swede) Larson, the genial marine who handles Navy's football fortunes, looked over his wealth of material today and opined that the middies might have a pretty good team this year.

"Our team is shaping up and barring injuries, we will be at least as strong as last year," Navy's head coach said. "The spirit and attitude of the squad are the best I have seen yet. There is no petty jealousy among the players and the squad is determined to play good ball."

It's just as well the Middies have that determination. They're likely to need it for a nine-game schedule opening here Saturday with William and Mary and then putting them against Cincinnati, Princeton, Drake, Yale, Pennsylvania, Notre Dame, Columbia and Army.

The team that Larson probably will start against William and Mary is composed of three seniors, five juniors and three sophomores. There are eight lettermen on this eleven, averaging 188 1/2 pounds. The backs, as fast and heavy as any Navy has had in years, average 190 pounds.

Larson is counting heavily on the three sophomores — Busk, Harrell and Vitucci. They showed plenty of stuff in a scrimmage with Georgetown last Saturday and if they only perform as well under the pressure of an actual game, Larson won't have much to worry about.

Busk, a 185-pounder, is slated to do the signal-calling, punting, passing and most of the outside running. The six-foot, 202-pound Harrell, will call the plays only when Busk is on the sidelines. Vitucci, 200 pounds of brawn, beat out a veteran for right guard.

What Navy needs most of all is a good climax runner who can lug the leather across the line when a quick score is needed. Larson may find him in Howie Clark, 148-pound mite who sparked in the Georgetown scrimmage.

Tilden and Perry in Second Round Matches

Chicago — (P) — Second round matches involving big Bill Tilden and Fred Perry highlighted today's schedule in the national professional tennis tournament.

Perry, former British Davis cup star now of Beverly Hills, Calif., sought a quarter-final berth in a match with Ed Stillman of Brooklyn, and Tilden engaged Paul Martin of Detroit.

Art Hendrix, Annapolis, played Ken Napier, Phoenix, Ariz., and Walter Senior, Louisville, Ky., played Ed Bax, Lake Geneva, Wis.

The four survivors will join Don Budge, Oakland, Calif., Joe Whalen, Larchmont, N. Y., Joe Nogrady, Montclair, N. J., and Karel Kozeluh, Greenwich, Conn., in the quarter-finals.

Nogrady did a bit of giant-killing, eliminating Vincent Richards, New York, in four sets.

times in helping whip Cincinnati 12-9. That brought his total runs to 108. Frank McCormick of the Reds is second with 106.

Derringer and Walters Give Reds Big Edge

Hurlers Will Go Into Series Fresh; Paul Is Rated 'Clutch' Pitcher

BY GAYLE TALBOT

New York—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, with Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters rested and full of purpose, must be conceded the pitching edge over either the Detroit Tigers or the Cleveland Indians—whichever they tackle in the world series next week.

Some might like to argue the point, particularly those who regard young Bob Feller of the Indians as the greatest pitcher in the game today. Yet the fact seems fairly obvious to this observer, at least, considering all the factors.

For the first time in many a year, the National league race was decided in time to give its champions a breathing spell. Walters and Derringer, instead of going into the series whipped down as they did a year ago against the Yanks, should be refreshed and at the very peak of their ability.

The Cleveland and Detroit mound staffs, on the other hand, are likely to feel the strain of their tense fight for the flag. With the exception of Feller, they are not youngsters, either.

Cincinnati has won two straight National league pennants on the strength of superb mound work, and little else. In fact, if the Reds suddenly were to be deprived of this pitching superiority—then there wouldn't be much sense in their playing Detroit in a world series, for the Tiger sluggers would have an enormous advantage over the Reds in a sheer test of hitting.

Preferred Over Feller
The American league winners can count on facing Derringer in the first game, Walters in the second. Junior Thompson in the third, and then back to Derringer. They are three fine right-handers, two of them 20-game winners. Many a baseball man regards Derringer as the best "clutch" pitcher in the business, preferable even to Feller in a tight spot because of his great experience and near-perfect control. Back of their big three the Reds fall off sharply. But they have the National league's best relief man in Joe Beegs to take up any slack, and a canny veteran in Jim Turner.

Against this array Cleveland offers the phenomenal young Feller, who hurled one no-hitter this season and barely missed a couple more, and Al Smith and Al Milnar, a brace of winning southpaws, as its slightly unbalanced big three.

Detroit, ready to work Tommy Bridges, Lynwood Rowe and Buck Newsum in blazing succession, comes nearer matching Cincinnati's pitching balance than Cleveland does. Newsum is one of the year's best pitchers, blustery and cocksure. Bridges, an ever-winning, durable veteran, won three world series games while losing only one for Detroit back in 1934-35. Rowe, a right-hander like the other two, has made the year's finest comeback after a spell in the minors.

Current Events Keep Ahead Of Professor and His Book

Greencastle, Ind.—(AP)—Dr. Harold Zink, Depauw university political science professor, is in a race with current events.

He spent eight years writing a book on foreign governments, but now most of the governments are different. He's reworking the book and hopes to have it ready in revised form by January—provided there aren't any more changes in the meantime.

OUCH!
Kansas City—A patrol car, ambulance and the homicide squad loomed to the home of Mrs. Anna Woods after she reported her son had been "shot between the eyes."

Officers found Michael E. Robinson, 14, the son, on the front porch holding his head in his hands. He said he had been "playing war" and playmates shot him—with a rubber band.

WRONG STRATEGY
Dallas—Policeman J. M. Ferguson found this note in a feminine hand, pasted on the windshield of an overparked car beside a parking meter:

"Mister Officer—I don't know how long I'm going to be gone, but if I'm gone too long you'll find a nickel under the hood."

The motorist got a ticket.

Sundt, Neb.—Proud was Farmer Charles Saythier of his marksmanship when he potted a rabbit just as it was scurrying into its hole.

Sorry, was Farmer Saythier when he reached into the hole for the rabbit, only to be bitten on the hand by a rattlesnake. Fortunately the bite was not fatal.

Richard Adamski Is FFA President
Seymour—Officers of the Future Farmers of America of the high school were elected as follows: Richard Adamski, president; Gerald Melke, vice president; Charles Jenkins, secretary; Robert Sigel, treasurer. Reporters are Donald Nelson and Billy Kumball.

Parents of new students were entertained at a meeting of this club last Wednesday evening. The program of the club's activities was explained and plans started for the state meet to be held in Madison Oct. 4 and 5. The state judging contest will be held in Madison at the same time. Ice cream and cookies were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

FFA held a dairy cattle judging contest here Saturday morning, with two schools participating. About thirty students engaged in the competition. Schools represented were Kaukauna, Shiocton, Brillion, Gillett and Seymour. High scores were awarded as follows: Donald Nelson, Seymour, first; Lawrence Kraus, Gillett, second; Paul Walker, Brillion, third. Eight teams were chosen as follows: Seymour, first; Kaukauna, second, and Shiocton, third.

A daughter was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Catch, route 2, Bondouel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prosser are visiting relatives in Los Angeles and Beverly Hills, Calif.

The intra-mural program of Seymour High school athletic department is now under way. In archery, class competition resulted as follows: Juniors, 339 points; freshmen, 291 points; sophomores, 286 points, and senior, 271 points.

Babson Urges Full Support For England

Says 'First Line Of Defense Theory Is Entirely Sound'

BY ROGER BABSON

Columbus, Ohio—Investors and others should not be disturbed if more important events are in the making than even an attempted invasion of the British Isles. Great Britain's Empire is being menaced in the Middle East, Africa, and the Far East, Count Von Der Schulenberg, working with Russia's Molotov, and Wilhelm Keppler's manipulations, through Tokio's Naotaka Sato, may now be forming for a simultaneous blow against the British Colonies.

If Great Britain is attacked by the combined forces of Germany, Italy, and Japan, France's Spain and Stalin's Russia may assist in striking her most vulnerable parts. This, however, need not cause worry. The spreading out of these enemy nations may relieve the pressure on England and be a blessing in disguise. Remember the story of the dog by a brook with a bone in his mouth. Seeing his reflection in the water, and thinking it another dog, with another bone, he opened his mouth to grab it and lost all. Hitler may be such a dog.

Mussolini wants Egypt and his African Empire; Stalin wants Iran and other oil fields in the Near East; Japan wants China, French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies—not forgetting India. Franco hopes to get Gibraltar, French Morocco, Portugal, and his Latin American possessions. Hitler has no immediate objections to these wants, provided he controls what they all get. Because men want things is, however, no reason that they will get them.

Watch Russia
Actually, Stalin does not want the fall of the British empire unless Germany and Italy fall with it. What he wants is a Europe so weakened that Russia can Communize it all without fighting. He fears Germany's rise to power and may take all of Finland as further protection in the Baltic. This program was fully outlined to me when I was last in Europe.

Meantime, Roosevelt's America draws closer to war. Without United States aid to England, it will be very difficult for the British empire to survive the attacks to come. I believe we will give that aid—wherever it is elected on November fifth. We certainly will if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected.

Of course, America is arming for defense of her soil, her way of life, her island possessions, and for the employment of her people at home and abroad. In this connection, she must support England with all that she can spare from her own armament program. The theory of the United States government that the maintenance of British fighting power is America's first line of defense is sound from every viewpoint.

It must be known that America would not be arming if the threat from the "have not" nations against the "have" which are Britain and America, was not indeed extremely serious. Further than this, America is most desirous of maintaining British power in the world to the extent at least where a balance will be arrived at and maintained. Then, no single nation, or group of nations, can take advantage of their less-powerful brother states.

Importance of "Status Quo"
The upholding of the status quo is the only possible insurance against the attempt of any one man to rule the entire world. This matter of the status quo is so vital to the right of people to live their lives in their own way that, in itself, it becomes sufficient as a reason for the arming of America—and if need be, to die in its defense. But the question of time in which to arm weighs heavily upon us. That is why the president took power into his own hands and sent 50 destroyers to England. If England falls, America must stand alone against the world, which has no respect for our American right to live as we please.

But let us remember that the might of Hitler and his allies may not as yet have been set in motion. Thousands of German naval officers are being sent to Brest, Nantes, and

Claims Waterway Condition Is Not Menace to Public

Chicago—(AP)—Dr. E. R. Krumbiegel, health commissioner of Milwaukee, expressed the opinion yesterday that conditions along the Illinois waterway, called "intolerable" by some of the residents along its banks, were not a menace to public health.

He based his conclusion on an inspection trip he made along the waterway southwest of Chicago. Describing a stop at one of the pools in the system, he said he failed to detect any odor of sewage in the water but sniffed a musty smell which probably came from decaying matter, and gases from garbage which had been deposited on the banks nearby.

Dr. Krumbiegel, testifying at a special master's hearing, was a witness for the six lake states opposing Illinois' petition for increased diversion of Lake Michigan water into the Chicago river and the sanitary district canals.

Illinois wishes to have the diversion increased from 1,500 cubic feet a second to 5,000, at least until adequate sewage disposal facilities have been placed in operation here. Its petition was addressed to the supreme court, under whose mandate the flow is controlled.

Toulon in France to man all available French fighting ships. Points along the Norwegian, Dutch, Belgian, and French coasts are occupied with German barges, motor boats, and all sorts of small craft intended to transport German troops to England. No Hitler has not abandoned his intentions of invading England, and when the blow falls, it may fall at the same time against the British empire in all parts of the world. So, let us not slacken our work toward defense of the status quo and the shores of our beloved United States and our Canadian cousin.

Airplanes Not Enough
Arming, however, with only guns, tanks and airplanes is not enough. Selecting recruits only by their physical fitness, without regard to their faith or behavior, will not do. I go further and say that for our defense program to succeed, the entire country must experience a spiritual re-birth. Too many defense planners, government officials, and business leaders today are acting without any regard for the church and the causes of righteousness for which it stands. When listening to them, it seems as if the religion, to which this nation owes so much, has been thrown completely out of the window.

People often ask me: "How can a just God let this war continue with all the suffering and destruction which it is causing?" I answer that God may be showing us that the world cannot get on by ignoring him. If we can have peace by ignoring him, we are present selfish and pleasure-loving ways, why should we support churches and their good works? Hence, I repeat that our defense program must be backed up by a change of heart on the part of the American people in order to save our own skins—not to mention democracy. In the end, "only righteousness will save a nation."

Melchior and Catlin Debate On Labor Laws

Assemblyman, Counsel For Unions Argue at Lions Club Luncheon

The Catlin labor bill has resulted in far fewer strikes since it was enacted in 1939, saving laboring men considerable in wages.

The Catlin and Peterson labor laws are driving Wisconsin labor "into the ranks of the radicals." Opposing statements such as these were heard at yesterday's meeting of the Appleton Lions club as Mark Catlin, Jr., state assemblyman, and Walter Melchior, attorney for the Appleton Building Trades council, debated on the merits of the labor legislation passed by the 1939 state legislature.

Catlin explained that his bill prohibited picketing of a plant or a customer of the plant unless a labor dispute, as defined by the bill, involves the employer and a majority of a bargaining unit. This, Catlin said, prevents "stranger" picketing, a practice which he regards as detrimental to both the laboring groups and the general public.

By prohibiting "stranger" picketing, the bill encourages and facilitates the black-ball system among employers, Melchior contended. He declared that he knows of numerous capable skilled workers who have been the victims of the black-ball system practiced by some employers, and that the Catlin bill, by making it possible for only the workers in a specific plant to picket that plant, puts them at an unfair disadvantage.

Pointing to the "strong guarantees for labor" and labor organization contained in the 1939 bills, Catlin declared that the bills also respected the right of a worker "to refrain from union activity if he so chooses." Most important of all in any labor legislation, Catlin said, is "the right to work."

Just For Labor
The assemblyman claimed that the 1937 labor legislation "was administered by labor solely for the benefit of labor," and Melchior agreed that those laws had given labor "a free pass to abuse."

But, Melchior replied, under the Catlin "stranger" picketing clause "employers now have a free pass to abuse." Melchior contended further that recent court decisions have indicated that stranger picketing cannot be legally prohibited.

Both men agreed that the state labor board should not sponsor unions, Catlin asserting that "For the first time Wisconsin has a labor board that is a judicial tribunal. I have yet to have anyone show me where they were prejudiced."

He said that the objectives of the 1939 legislation were to eliminate intimidation, coercion, and violence in labor differences which constitute a big threat to the labor movement as far as public respect is concerned.

The state labor board, Melchior says, "should not be both the judge and jury." Let the board keep its judicial power, but take its pre-

MINERAL WEALTH

The mighty Andes mountains stretch from the extreme north of South America down to the southern end.

The northern parts of the Andes are mainly in Colombia. They rise to great heights. Some of the peaks are more than three and a half miles high! They are higher than Pike's Peak, Mount Whitney or any other peak in North America except Mount McKinley, Alaska, and Mount Logan in northwestern Canada.

Mount McKinley rises to a height of almost four miles. It is higher than any peak in Colombia, but some other high parts of the Andes go up a bit farther. In northern Argentina there is a peak four and one-third miles high.

The foothills, valleys and lower slopes of Colombia's mountains are covered with a rich growth of trees and other plant life.

The forests of Colombia contain trees which provide part of the world's supply of vanilla, the flavoring so widely used in making ice cream and cake.

Other plant products of this South American republic are sarsaparilla, rubber and quinine. Quinine is of great importance in fighting the dread disease known as malaria.

On mountain slopes of Colombia and in valleys at heights of from one to two miles, it is possible to grow almost any crop to be found in the United States. Wheat, corn and potatoes are among the things raised by Colombian farmers.

Lizards, alligators, porcupines, opossums, foxes, squirrels, monkeys, pumas and jaguars are animals common in one part of the country or another. The birds include parrots, storks, spoonbills, eagles, kites and hawks.

Colombia ranks third in population among the nations of South America. It has about twice as many people as Chile, but not so many as Brazil or Argentina.

The jewels known as emeralds are obtained in Colombia, and it also has riches of gold, platinum and oil. The emerald mines were in operation before the first Spanish soldiers and settlers arrived. They were forgotten for about three centuries but were opened again in modern times by American companies. An emerald is worth as much as a diamond of the same size, sometimes being even more valuable.

Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — It is with something akin to enthusiasm that the movie colony has welcomed home Esther Ralston, star of a few years ago. Now here from New York for a feature role in "Tin Pan Alley" (20th Century - Fox), she will more or less serve as a test case for producers to judge whether the public wants its favorites of yesterday back again.

Choice of Miss Ralston for such a test is fortunate. It has not been too many years since she was here, to begin with. More important, during the past two years she has quietly equipped herself for this opportunity, which apparently she felt confident would come. On eastern radio, in summer theatre and stock companies and on road tours, she has gone through a stringent training period.

Added to this, she is (she always was) a remarkably beautiful woman. Remember, she was a "Miss America" once upon a time—one of the few beauty contest winners ever to achieve real screen success.

My morning mail seldom falls to bring inquiries about ex-stars, and Miss Ralston usually comes in for a heavy share of such attention. That's why I say her presence in "Tin Pan Alley" is a fine test case: If Esther's fans support her comeback by attending her picture, not only should she inherit further roles but producers will be more inclined to provide breaks for other former stars.

It is ironic that Miss Ralston's comeback deal should have been signed on her birthday. Hollywood sent to New York for her, temporarily taking her away from her new husband (Fred Lloyd of Radio Daily) and daughter. She has this reporter's fervent wish that only good luck shall pursue her comeback effort.

IDOL CHATTER Bill "Hop-along" Boyd, prematurely white at 42, would still win many a vote as Hollywood's handsomest man. Add girls I've never heard make a catty remark about anyone. Juicy Garland What fun to see Victor McLac-lan on those die-hards who still insist all actors must be cis-sies. Peas-in-a-pod Dorothy Bell. New English import and ex-sta: Priscilla Deane. Very blonde

Anita Louise, in her new crimson beret, reminds me of strawberry jello and whipped cream. Intriguing mannerism: Lana Turner's sudden eye-widening brow-lift when she's surprised. Out here that ancient adage should read: "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

CUFF NOTES: Claudette Colbert, who's never had one, is being tested for a driver's license. Six-foot George (Shirley's brother) Temple weighed in for the Loyola University frosh grid squad at an even 200 pounds. The Henry Wilcoxons are packing for a flying jaunt to St. Vincent's Island to visit his parents. After checking first box-office returns on "Boom Town," MGM has upped the budget on "The Yearling" and will make it a 1941 colossal. Sight for sore eyes: Lana Turner in her new blonded hair. John Payne (with 2500 accredited flying hours) and Ann Shirley are shopping for a backcountry ranch and a plane in which to commute.

There's Hollywood drama in an insurance policy kennelmen Ren-nie Renfro has just taken out on "Daisy," hi-salaried mutt of the "Blondie" series. The policy is for $25,000—a modest amount in view of Daisy's earning powers. Three years ago Renfro bought the dog—for 50 cents!

Mary Ann, 6-year-old daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Riese, Kaukauna Route 2, fractured her left arm Sunday evening when she fell at her home while playing with several other children.

Mayors Protest Bans

Called on the carpet at Tokyo to hear complaints of rural folk against city spenders the mayors of six Japanese cities hit back with grievances of their own. Kobe's mayor pointed out that his constituents were the first to be subjected to foreign rice, 80 per cent of it being mixed with the more palatable native product. In the provinces, he charged, the people use but 50 per cent of foreign rice in their mixtures. The mayor of Kioto where 80 per cent of the production is of luxury goods, protested the decision of the Government to prohibit the manufacture of luxuries.

Complaints were also heard that food bans imposed at some popular resorts diverted patrons to more favored resorts where the restrictions are less rigorous.

The government of Bolivia is strengthening its control over prices

Bluejays Start Drill for First League Contest

Menasha High Gridders To Oppose Conference Champs at Kaukauna

Menasha — Menasha High school gridders Monday started preparation for their opening conference football game at Kaukauna Saturday afternoon. Coach N. A. Calder outlined mistakes committed in the opening game against Two Rivers which the Bluejays lost 14 to 12.

The Bluejays will receive plenty of work this week. Blocking in particular will receive the stress as well as pass offense. The Menasha blocking was particularly weak on pass plays during the Two Rivers game although weather conditions made passing almost an impossibility during the entire second half.

Some players shifts may be made in the line and backfield as a result of the opening game. The Bluejays will not receive too much scrimmage this week to avoid possible injuries. The entire squad came through the opening game in good shape.

Both Coach N. A. Calder and his assistant, Leslie Ansorge, watched Kaukauna smother West DePere Saturday by a 25 to 0 score. The Kaukauna team naturally is built around Carl Giordana, senior backfield star who does the running, punting and passing with very little need for assistance. Lanky Bill Alker is the chief threat as a pass receiver from his end position.

Kaukauna stamped itself as the team to beat for the conference championship in its victory over West DePere. Menasha played a poor game during the first half against Two Rivers but rallied in the second half to make a close game. The Jays will have to play the entire game Saturday at that speed to hold Kaukauna.

Episcopal Church School to Resume Meetings Sunday

Menasha — The St. Thomas Episcopal church school will open after the summer vacation at 9:30 Sunday morning. The high school classes will be abandoned this year in favor of an organization which will be known as the Sunday Morning Corporate Communion Fellowship club. The program will include attendance at the 8 o'clock communion service, a breakfast in the parish house followed by a fellowship meeting and educational program. The first meeting will be held Oct. 6.

Dean Carl J. Waterman, Lawrence College Conservatory of Music, will direct music at St. Thomas Episcopal church during the coming year. Dean Waterman will conduct the first rehearsal of the choir at 7:15 Wednesday evening and regular rehearsals will be every Wednesday evening. Miss Ruby Hart will be organist.

St. Anne's Guild will begin its fall and winter season Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 9. The Woman's Auxiliary will resume meetings following a supper at 6:15 Wednesday, Oct. 4. Auxiliary supper meetings will be the first Friday of the month.

The Quilting club is at work raising money for the rector's discretionary fund. Mrs. G. A. Comstock may be contacted to place orders for quilts.

The General Convention of the Episcopal church will open in Kansas City Wednesday, Oct. 9.

Brothers, Sisters Share in Estate Of Martha Schmidt

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau — Oshkosh — Final distribution of the $18,000 estate of Martha S. Schmidt, who died Jan. 7, 1940, at Menasha, was ordered this morning by County Judge D. E. McDonald.

The estate listed $3,000 in real estate and $15,000 in personal property. The real estate was sold to liquidate the estate for distribution.

Breaks Hip

Menasha — Albert Tews, 140 River street, suffered a broken hip in a fall downstairs at his home Sunday night. He was taken to Theda Clark hospital.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent and display advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street, and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for display advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or telephoned. Orders for classified advertising should be placed by telephoning 543 in Appleton, and the cost of the telephone call will be rebated. The Twin Cities office closes at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Y.W.C.A. Secretary Will Attend Class Series at Milwaukee

Neenah — Miss Florence Warner, general secretary of the Twin City Y.W.C.A., will leave for Milwaukee Wednesday to attend a series of classes on group work which will immediately precede the state conference of social work.

Committees of the Twin City Y.W.C.A. are meeting this week for September sessions. The house committee, Mrs. John Tolversen, chairman, met at 1:30 Monday afternoon. The finance committee met at 7 o'clock Monday evening. Mrs. R. Roudabush and Mrs. N. F. Verbrick are chairmen. Miss Beulah Shinn, Girl Reserve secretary, met with the Girl Reserve committee at 7:30 Monday evening. Mrs. J. D. Page is committee chairman.

The executive committee of the Business and Professional Girls club of the "Y" will meet at 8 o'clock this evening.

The nominating committee will meet at 4:30 Friday afternoon.

Neenah Group Will Consider Sewer Survey

Would Determine Causes of Excess Water in System

Neenah — While the Menasha council has refused to sponsor a survey of its sewer system, the public improvements committee of the Neenah council will determine whether it is advisable to carry out Neenah's proposed survey at a meeting at 7:30 this evening at the city hall.

The purpose of the survey is to determine the causes of the large amount of water in the sanitary sewer system. Water in the sanitary sewers results in an overload at the sewage disposal plant and causes sewage to back up into basements.

The committee recently was authorized by the council to apply to the Neenah-Menasha sewerage commission to have the survey conducted. The council committee on streets, sidewalks and bridges at a meeting last night at city hall opened bids on new wiring at the city garage and for a compressor for the garage. Five bids for the wiring job ranging in cost from $89 to $219.50 were submitted. The Well-Werner Electric company posted the lowest bid, $89. Bids ranging from $140 to $242.25 for the compressor were opened. No recommendations were made, the committee deciding to check the bids.

Harold Arnemann Bangs 617 Series

Neenah — Harold Arnemann, who drilled the maples for high total of 617, sparked the Sleepy Hollow Bowling league last night at Neenah alleys. He shot games of 212, 218 and 187.

F. Lappen rolled second high series of 601. Art Campbell hit a 584, Williams 577 and F. Lauman 574.

Stackers, which won three games from the Edgewater Papers, rolled high team series of 2,689. Home Fuchs were second with 2,669, and Latham Body Service spilled high game of 974.

Scores:

Latham (1)	820	874	802

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau — Oshkosh — Applications for marriage licenses were made today at the office of A. E. Hedke, Winnebago county clerk, by Norbert L. Winkler, route 2, Appleton, and Leah M. Nordgren, Oshkosh; Fred P. Boogh, 115 Columbia avenue, Neenah, and Mae H. Darrow, route 1, Neenah.

Rubbish Wednesday

Menasha — Rubbish will be collected in the third district Wednesday, according to H. O. Haugh, city health officer. The district includes Second street and the area north up to, but not including, Sixth street.

EXCLUDE IT, PLEASE!—Pardon Puddles, a coy six-year-old rhinoceros of the San Diego, Cal., zoo, if he acts a little bored over being chosen the "most popular zoo inmate." Visitors decided it. Puddles came from the White Nile.

Church Families Will Hear Convention Report at Supper

Menasha — The First Congregational church will sponsor a church night supper at 6:30 Wednesday evening in the fellowship hall for families of the parish and their friends. Each family will bring its dishes, silver, sandwiches and one covered dish. Frank B. Younger, chairman of the trustees, who was delegate to the biennial meeting of the General Council of Congregational Churches at Berkeley, Calif., will speak.

M. Schultz and Mrs. Joe Schifferling entertained for them. Cards were played during the social hour. Prizes in schafkopf going to Miss Frances Resch, Mrs. George Giesen and Mrs. Mary Tum-

$7,800 Verdict in Uncontested Suit

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau — Oshkosh — A circuit court jury yesterday afternoon brought back a verdict of $7,842 damages in the suit against Carl Marquart, formerly of Oshkosh, which was brought by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Heller, Neenah, and the Employers Mutual Liability Insurance company. They had asked for $12,700.

The suit grew out of an accident on county trunk A, one mile south of Neenah, last January 9 in which Marquart was the driver of the car that killed John Heller, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heller, while the son was delivering copies of the Appleton Post-Crescent. Marquart subsequently pleaded guilty to a charge of fourth degree manslaughter and paid a fine of $500 and costs.

The suit which was heard in Judge Henry P. Hughes' court yesterday afternoon was uncontested. The jury went out at 4 o'clock and returned at 5:15 with its verdict.

In its verdict the jurors awarded the insurance company its claim of $2,000 for expenses incurred as insurers of the Post Publishing company for workmen's compensation. The Hellers were awarded $3,000 for pecuniary loss, $2,500 for loss of companionship of their son, and $342 for funeral expenses.

Neenah Teachers are Checking on Students

Neenah — Principal J. H. Hozman reported today that a check is being made on students who are doing unsatisfactory work in their studies.

Teachers are reporting to the principal the names of students doing unsatisfactory work and the reasons why they are failing in the various subjects. Conferences between those students and the principal are held.

meft, in bridge to Mrs. Earl Gatz and in rummy to Mrs. Clarence Giesen. Miss Resch and Mrs. Joe Altenhofen won the guest prizes. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harte, Milwaukee; Mrs. C. Schiltz, Appleton; Mrs. Ed Jansen, and Mrs. Earl Gatz, Appleton and Mrs. James Conner, Neenah.

The Junior Group of the Ladies society of First Congregational church, meeting Monday evening in the Mary Donaldson room, named Mrs. M. G. Auer, chairman, Mrs. Hugh Sutton, Mrs. Waldo Friedland, Mrs. Walter Bispig, Mrs. F. B. Younger and Mrs. Gerald C. Churchill as the committee for the luncheon Oct. 7 of the General society. During the social hour, Mrs. G. Williams and Mrs. Gerald C. Churchill won auction honors and Mrs. Ralph Moon and Mrs. W. C. Friedland, contract honors in bridge.

Economics Club to Launch Activities With Luncheon

Menasha — When members of the Economics club of Menasha and Neenah gather for the first full meeting following a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Butte des Morts Country club Friday afternoon, they will hear the first of a series of guest speakers discuss some phase of the club's 1940-41 program theme, "Wake Up America." Mrs. Maude Mendenhall, Fond du Lac will speak on "Present Problems of American Youth." The year's program will be presented and music will be furnished by Mrs. Frank Broeren, Mrs. H. J. C. Rosenow, president, Mrs. T. H. Thompson and Mrs. Merritt Clinton, vice presidents, Mrs. Mac Johnson, secretary and Mrs. O. C. Johanson, treasurer, will be hostesses.

Neenah to Meet Milwaukee '11' In Non-Loop Tilt

Rockets Will Play Second Game Against Country Day School

Neenah — Coach George Christoph's Neenah High school grid squad leaves the Northeastern Wisconsin conference Saturday afternoon and travels to Milwaukee for a non-conference game with Country Day High school.

It will be the second game this season for the Neenah eleven which marked up a 10 to 6 victory over the Clintonville Truckers last Friday night at Clintonville.

Christoph was more pleased with the showing his gridders made against Clintonville than at any time since the practice season got underway. In fact, he was anything but happy until game time. The Rockets muffed a couple of scoring threats against the Truckers, took a 3-point lead, lost it and then regained it.

Clifford Bunker, who was converted from quarterback to a left halfback this year, dropkicked the first three points. He is an above average dropkicker. The Truckers got a touchdown on an intercepted pass, and then Neenah clinched the victory when Buxton Kettering, right halfback, tossed a left-handed pass to Bunker in the end zone. Bunker again dropkicked for the extra point.

Untried Opponent — Country Day High school, a private institution, is an unknown quantity as far as Neenah is concerned, for it will be the first time that the two teams have met. Neenah has not been able to learn much about the Milwaukee team, for Saturday's battle will be the first this season for the Milwaukee outfit.

Although it is in no conference, Country Day is generally highly touted. It is reported to have a big team which was sent to a northern Wisconsin resort, Minocqua, for early fall practice. It also sent a scout to watch the Neenah-Clintonville game.

The Rockets will play their first home game the following Saturday when they clash with Kaukauna. The Kaws Saturday gave West DePere a 25 to 0 drubbing.

Airport Committee May Hire Engineer To Determine Costs

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh—When the aviation committee of the Winnebago county board meets tomorrow, it may hire an engineer to study the proposed airport sites and bring back a report as to the exact costs for improvements on these sites to give the county a Class III airport, according to several members of the aviation committee.

The committee met Saturday with Thomas F. Cosgrove, engineer for the Milwaukee county airport, and Major F. E. Piasecki, manager of that county's airport, for an opinion as to which site would make the best airport. The Milwaukeeans, in an informal opinion, stated that they thought the present Oshkosh airport would make the best site with the location in the town of Oshkosh at the intersection of county trunks J and JJ being second. The town of Vinland site along county trunks A and GG, near the Old Glory farm, and the Winneconne proposed site were ruled out because of the high cost in getting these lands in shape for an airbase and because of the distance from a town.

It was stated that the county board probably would not meet until the middle of October as it would take several weeks to obtain a cost statement and topographical maps on the proposed sites.

Roosevelt PTA To Have Study Club Program

Proposed Course Will be Outlined At Meeting Oct. 1

Neenah—Parents of students in Roosevelt school and the teachers will meet at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 1, for a study club program and to hear proposals for a study course by Mrs. Harry Johnson and Mrs. Nathan Burstein, co-chairman of the study club of the Parent-Teacher association.

Plans for the meeting Oct. 1 is the result of the meeting Monday afternoon of a group of mothers of students in Roosevelt school who gathered to hear a radio talk, "Vital Controls in My Child's Life" by Mrs. Earl Frusher, state radio chairman, over state station WHA. Mrs. Frusher's talk introduced the study club course to be given over WHA this fall and winter. The course will be divided into four units of eight programs each. The first unit will deal with controls centered in the home and the subjects for discussion include "Ability to Face Life's Realities" which will be broadcast Sept. 30; "Personal Hygiene a Necessity," Oct. 7; "Attitudes Toward Health," Oct. 14; "Social Hygiene Begins at Home," Oct. 21; "Experiences in Consumer Buying," Oct. 28; "Self-Imposed Family Standards," Nov. 4; and "Personal Work Habits" on Nov. 11. The other three units include legislative controls, school controls, and community controls.

Following the radio talk Monday afternoon, the mothers discussed how the radio programs might be utilized. All mothers will listen to the talk to be given at 3:30 Monday afternoon, Sept. 30, over WHA, as a background for Tuesday's meeting in the school. It is planned to secure a speaker for the meeting who will discuss the same topic, "Ability to Face Life's Realities," as the radio speaker.

Johnson Says Americans Have Right to Clear Issue on War

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON
Washington, D. C.—While I was in Chicago last week, the "Defend America by Defending Britain" committee staged a mass meeting—largely of gold coast intellectuals—in the Coliseum. It was harangued by several eminent breast beating war criers. All they ask now is to strip our inadequate army air force of 50 of its flying fortresses and detach from our navy the mosquito torpedo boats which congress recently prevented the president from sending to Britain.

How this kind of thing could be done lawfully—even under the attorney general's phony opinion by which the destroyers were detached without even consulting congress—doesn't appear. These people don't care. They don't even worry about that, because they know the president doesn't care either.

It is interesting to speculate on why this meeting was held in Chicago, I know. When I made a recent radio address on the other side of this question for the "America first" committee, the press was furnished with a mimeographed counterblast by a "defend Britain" official. He said that it was noteworthy that headquarters of the "America first" committee was in national defense as the eastern seaboard—where the Britain boys come from.

If a seaboar had any doubts about that mid-western quickness on the trigger where their patriotism is involved, he should go out into those great open spaces and make just one crack like that. He might not come away all in one piece, but his doubts would be resolved.

Of course, this eastern seaboard Coliseum ballyhoo for war didn't pull any such dumbbell boner as that. On the contrary, it combed the prairies and dished up that fiery fourth New Dealer from Texas with a loose cow name, Maury Maverick, to prove that the "ranch country by the Rio Grande" is for getting into the war.

Also, we were advised on this serious strategical question by movie he-vamp, from Hollywood, young Douglas Fairbanks. He, as everybody knows, has a long, heroic, and varied celluloid military and diplomatic experience in all parts of the world that can profitably be imitated on photographic film in Hollywood, California. He is a pretty good actor, but Maury is a better one. Finally, our perennial breast beating Boadicea, Dorothy Thompson, was put on to do her well-known war dance, and also Admiral Stanley.</

Audience Jams Auditorium for Sportsman Party

New London—Some 1,000 people, men and women, jammed the New London High school auditorium last night to make a great success of the New London Fish and Game club's second Sportsman's party in three years.

With the Rev. H. P. Rekstad as master of ceremonies, the last hour and a half of the program was given to distribution of over 200 gifts, 20 of which were especially for the ladies.

H. J. Scholtz, route 2, New London, received the major gift of a twin cylinder outboard motor; Roy Runnels, 314 E. Hancock street, New London machinist, was given the pump shot gun, and James Mulhoney, 113 St. John's place, New London market deliveryman, received the single-cylinder outboard motor.

The crowd responded appreciatively to the program of entertainment, featuring a color motion picture of the Canadian woods made and shown by R. L. Swanson of Appleton and a ventriloquist act by Jaxon the Great and his pal Jerry. The motion picture was accompanied by music and a running narrative by Mr. Swanson.

Talks on Conservation

The need for conservation and the cooperation of hunters and fishermen was emphasized by R. H. Fisher, Shawano, secretary of the state conservation commission, in a 15-minute talk. He pointed out that we would scarcely have any game or forests left today if we had not launched rigid conservation measures 15 years ago and that the younger generation of boys and girls should be taught the need and trained to cooperate through knowledge and a real understanding of the problem. The sportsman's $1 license fee is his best investment in conservation, he declared, pointing out the accomplishments of the state department.

The presentation of gifts, besides keeping everyone anxiously on edge, provided a number of amusing incidents for additional entertainment. Percy Holmstrom, liquor dealer, received a quart of liquor; Walter Spiering, New London pop manufacturer, received a case of his own pop; Ed Steingraber, employed in a New London pop factory, received a case of pop donated by a Waupaca pop factory; Emil Gehrk, hardware merchant, was presented with a thermos jug donated by another hardware merchant.

The Rev. Mr. Rekstad, as master of ceremonies, announced the recipient of a case of beer—and then found the recipient was himself. He auctioned it off for the benefit of the Fish and Game club. William Sager, an usher, was about to deliver a gift of six decoy ducks to a member of the audience—and then found they were being given to him.

Lucky members of the audience carried their gift burdens away cheerfully, perhaps with the exception of W. T. Comstock, New London publisher, who struggled homeward afterward with a very weighty roll of heavy roofing paper balanced precariously on his shoulder.

Friends Meet at Pelican Lake After Half Century Apart

New London—It's been 51 years since Mrs. Charles Krueger, 809 Wyman street, has worked for Mrs. Valeska Weaver as housekeeper and she hadn't seen her since. When she found, quite by accident, that Mrs. Weaver was living at Pelican Lake, she went there Sunday to visit with her indefinitely.

Mrs. Krueger traveled with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krueger of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hansen of Hortonville who also visited at Pelican Lake and Rhineland Sunday.

Leaving Monday to visit this week at St. Louis, Mo., were Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Buchholz of this city and Mr. and Mrs. A. Heide-mann of Clintonville. They will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Cleveland who are celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. On the way down and back they will stop at Delavan to visit Leonard Buchholz who is studying there.

Attending a reunion of the Burgner family at Poyssippi Sunday from this city were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schoenrock and family, Mrs. Rosaline Schoenrock, Herman Schoenrock, Leo Schoenrock, and Mr. and Mrs. William Tank. Next year the reunion will be held at New London with Mrs. Rosaline Schoenrock and Mrs. Tank in charge of arrangements.

Minister Denounces Search for Security

New London—The constant search for security, by individuals as well as nations, was denounced by the Rev. Robert K. Bell, Appleton Presbyterian minister, in a talk before the New London Rotary club at the Elwood hotel Monday noon.

The Rev. Mr. Bell was speaker at the luncheon meeting and declared that when individuals or nations think they have found security they become decadent. Progress results, he said, from picking out a job to do and sticking to it, whether it be for the betterment of the individual or all humanity.
